GREAT BRITAIN.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

Another meeting had been called at London of persons interested in such of the old American securities as have been in arrears previously or in consequence of the war, with a view of forming a committee. The securities, in respect of which this agitation is commenced, are bonds of Virginia, Louisiana, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi, and various railways and banks in those States, the whole of which represent a very heavy amount.

The Daily News city article says if the indebted States should stipulate for an arrangement for funding the arrears of dividends, it is probable the creditors would be disposed to meet them half way.

THE SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CONFEDERATE LOAN.

In regard to the published list of persons suffering by the Confederate loan, additional denials are put forth.

The Times, in a leading article, terms the list a malicious imposture. It says the statement that the editor of the Times is a loser by Confederate stock to the amount of £10,600, or more money, is a complete falsehood. The injurious and insulting comment which the Star has based upon original falsehoods are, therefore, entirely unfounded. No reprobation can be too great for levity which admits such imputation on the general authority of the New-York Herald, and then makes them the theme of affected indignation.

The Morning Star having included Mr. GLADSTONE in the list and called on him for explanation, publishes the following laconic telegram from that gentleman at Liverpool:

"The Chancellor of the Exchequer to the Editor of the Star: I see my name placed on the Confederate loan list. Please to remove it."

HON. EVELYN ASHLEY writes to the Times, that at no time had he any share or interest in the Confederate loan. Mr. RIDDOIT, proprietor of the Morning Post, writes to that journal that he never had and never applied for any of the loan; and that if the rest of the list be like that which refers to him, there is no dependence to be placed on it.

SLIGHT DECLINE IN AMERICAN SECURITIES.

SATTERTHWAITE'S Circular of the evening of the 4th says: 'During the past week transactions in American securities have not been so large or numerous as reported in our last, still there has been a large amount of business during the week. Five-twenties, in consequence of the higher rate of money on the continent and here, gave way one per cent. But on to-day's news from America they have reached and close at 69½@69¾. Illinois and Erie show an improvement, the demand being very large. Illinois shares advanced to 84¼@84½, Erie 60½@60¾; scrip of new Erie last quoted at 3½@3¾ premium. Atlantic and Great Western bonds are in request at $1 advance."

TORPEDOES FOR GREAT BRITAIN.

Important American torpedo experiments took place at Chatham on the 4th, under the direction of DONALD MCKAY and Mr. BEARDSLEE, in the presence of the Lords of Admiralty. Numerous operations took place, the most important being the destruction of the old sailing frigate Terpsichore, by a 75-pounder. The torpedoes were placed at a depth of seven feet below the vessel's keel. When the electric spark was communicated there was a dull report, the vessel quivered, and in a few minutes settled quietly down on an even keel. Not a splinter was shot into the air.

THE FENIAN MOVEMENT.

The Fenian arrests continued. The total number in all places was about 200.

A suspicious vessel, bearing the American flag, and supposed to be one of those expected with arms, had appeared off Queenstown; but she again put to sea.

A strange vessel is said to have sent a letter on shore, which was opened and found to contain a bill for £1,000 in favor of a member of the Fenian organization.

The annual meeting of the Local Science Association was in session at Sheffield. Lord BROUGHAM presided.

PRUSSIA.

A semi-official Berlin paper, alluding to the meeting between the Emperor NAPOLEON and Count BISMARK, admits that it cannot be without political importance and effect.

Summary of News Per City of London.

The publication by the American press of the names of alleged holders of the Confederate loan had caused some excitement.

Mr. LAIRD authorizes the Liverpool papers to say that he never sold or was interested in any of that stock.

The examination of the Fenians at Dublin was concluded on the 2d. The additional evidence developed nothing new of moment. Five of the prisoners were committed for trial for high treason. The prisoners denied the imputation that an indiscriminate slaughter of the higher classes was ever meditated. Arrests continued in various parts of the interior.

The Daily News has collected numerous facts showing a striking revival of trade in the Southern States.

It was stated that the British Government proposed to guarantee the Canadian loan for the purchase of the Hudson Bay territory.

The new steamer Java of the Cunard line had arrived in the Mersey and would take her place in the line on the 21st of October.

The British revenue returns are highly satisfactory. The reduction was very slight, notwithstanding the heavy reduction of taxation.

The Constitutionnel denies the report that the Empress Eugenie had published a pamphlet on Mexico.

INPORTANT INSURRECTION IN OAJACA.

Affairs in Mazatlan and Sinaloa.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Tuesday, Oct. 10, 1865.

The Manhattan, which arrived yesterday, has brought the important news of a general insurrection in the department of Oajaca, Mexico. The Republican General, FIGUEROA, by his success in Tehuacan, obtained greater supplies of money and arms than was supposed, and he was able to pay and equip a large force. He is said to have collected $100,000 and 1,300 muskets. For more than a month it has been found impossible to send the mail to Oajaca by the most direct and usual road, which passes through the district called the "Cañada," (the glen.) Over this part of the department, and the Sierra, the Republican chief next extended his control, until for the extent of forty leagues the Imperial Government was ignored. The work of enlisting goes on, and to lend their aid several officers have left Oajaca.

Whilst some of the towns were enthusiastically going through their indispensable legal form of renouncing the empire, unfortunately a Frenchman named RAIS, who had lived for several years in Tehuantepec and was quietly traveling to Mexico, fell a victim to the mob.

The escape of PORFIRIO DIAZ, which was eagerly anticipated in the Republican camp, was confidently counted upon as certain to revolutionize the whole department, and his friends had stationed troops in various parts to protect his flight. According to the Estafette, he was last heard of in the direction of Tepeji with a force of 40 men.

The latest intelligence (dated the 1st instant) from the capital, and founded on information from Tehuacan, represents the insurrection as very serious, a fact which it would be useless to attempt to conceal, for the whole district is openly in arms against the empire. The Estafette, while confessing all this, finds consolation in that it is best to know the worst, as timely measures can be taken; above all as the season favorable to military operations is at hand.

Guadalagara has had a sensation, produced by an expected "pronunciamiento," which, however, was stifled, and a person arrested with compromising documents in his possession. The neighboring town of Ameca had its uproar, which was smothered, and the leader was able to escape.

At Mazatlan there had arrived a party of two hundred immigrants, mostly Texans, who had marched in military style from the Rio del Norte to the shores of the Pacific. Some went by the steamer Stephens to California; others intend to settle near Mazatlan. Into the same town are swarming the French residents of the interior, who, ruined and badly treated, have left their homes to pine in misery in that city, while itself has to contend with adversity, for the neighboring towns, which were subsidiary to its commerce, have been destroyed in the war.

A correspondent of the Estafette says the Republicans under COLONA and PATONI, when they attacked in Parral a detachment of the Ninety-fifth Regiment of the line, sacked the town, in conjunction with the rabble, for six hours, and caused a loss of two millions of dollars.

In Sinaloa, the Republicans are masters of a great expanse of territory, and the leader, RUBI, is accused by his opponents of having put to death sixteen persons, of whom one was over eighty years of age. PESQUIERA is not so successful, for Alamos is the only place he holds in Sonora. It is even said that he has fled toward Chihuaha. LARA.

THE TRIAL OF ETHERIDGE,

He Denies the Jurisdiction of the Court, but is Overruled—His Letter Admitted in Evidence.

CAIRO, Saturday, Oct. 14.

The court for the trial of EMERSON ETHERIDGE is now in session at Columbus, Ky. ETHERIDGE stated he had no objection to any member of the court and wished to act as his own counsel. He asked the court to grant him time to file his own plea against jurisdiction, &c.

CAIRO, Saturday, Oct. 14.

On the second day of the trial of EMERSON ETHERIDGE, the accused, who had been permitted to plead his own case, read a plea denying the jurisdiction of the commission, which the court overruled, upon which ETHERIDGE filed an exception to the ruling. He then plead not guilty to the charges and specifications, except the second specification and second charge, to which he plead guilty, and the court allowed him to introduce the whole letter from which the extract was made. This letter is known as the "Dresden letter," dated June 28, in which he made the declaration that Tennessee had no law but force, and no semblance to civil government, State or Federal, but an usurpation enforced by the bayonets of negroes.

After some evidence for the prosecution, the accused presented the court with a written statement, which admits all the facts in the first charge, namely, the encouragement of resistance to the enforcement of the laws.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Summary of the Trial of Capt. Wirz.

ENORMOUS AMOUNT OF TESTIMONY TAKEN.

Defendant's Counsel will Make No Argument.

The Judge-Advocate Proceeds on Wednesday.

Details of Late Treasury Appropriations.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Oct. 15.

THE WINDING UP OF THE WIRZ TRIAL.

The record of testimony in the Wirz trial makes 5,000 foolscap pages, divided into seventy parts, and contains between three and four hundred objections and rulings of the court. One hundred and sixty witnesses were examined on both sides, several of whom were individually on the stand for two days for examination in chief and cross-examination. Mr. BAKER, of the counsel for the defence, thought it would take him seven or eight days to properly read this mass of testimony, in addition to the subsequent task of examining all the points of law, and last of all, the criticisms of the statements of witnesses, the comparisons of the different classes of testimony, and the writing out of his argument. He insisted on having two full weeks for the performance of this labor, saying it was utterly impossible for him to complete it in a shorter period of time. The court at first gave him eight days, and afterward extended the limit to twelve; but Mr. BAKER would take nothing less than two weeks from Monday, and failing in this, he chose to submit the case without argument. Col. CHIPMAN, the Judge-Advocate, is already preparing his argument, promising to cover the ground on both sides, and will read it next Wednesday, when, as is usual in such cases, the court will, with closed doors, proceed to consider and make up their findings in the case before them.

DETAILS OF APPROPRIATIONS.

We gave some days since a statement of the definite appropriations made at the last session of Congress, amounting to something over $822,000,000. This, it should be known, included appropriations for the War and Navy Departments, of which not more than one half will now be used, thus reducing the total of appropriations about $300,000,000, and consequently the actual definite appropriations will not amount to more than, say $522,000,000; to the sum should be added the indefinite appropriations which were omitted in our first statement. These indefinite appropriations are for payment of horses and other property lost or destroyed in the military service, $500,000; for repayment to importers the excess of deposits for unascertained duties, $2,250,000; for payment of debentures or drawbacks, bounties, &c., $1,000,000; for expenses for collecting the revenue from customs, $2,250,000; for expenses of collecting internal revenue under the new law, $8,000,000; for allowance or drawback on articles on which internal duties or tax has been paid, $450,000; for miscellaneous purposes, such as storage, cartage, &c., for Marine Hospital fund, $311,000; interest on the public debt, $138,000,000. Total appropriations, specific and indefinite, $674,761,060.

THE NEW BONDS.

The printing of the new issue of five-twenty bonds is rapidly progressing in the printing bureau of the Treasury Department. By Wednesday next the one thousand dollar bonds will be ready for distribution. Eighteen million dollars of the loan have already been taken.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA PETITIONERS.

Mr. HUGER, one of the South Carolina delegates to present the memorial for the pardon of JEFF. DAVIS, being too ill to visit the Executive mansion yesterday, the proposed interview to hear the President's reply to the memorial did not take place. An informal call was made by the other delegates, and in a brief conversation the President intimated that Gov. MCGRATH could be released from custody. Not a word was said as to JEFF. DAVIS. The delegates leave here for South Carolina to-morrow evening, after their interview is concluded with the President.

KENTUCKY.

The abolition of martial law in Kentucky does not, as is supposed, settle all the difficulties there. The chief difficulty of all remains. Gen. PALMER, by virtue of his military authority gave passes to all negroes to go whither they would in search of work, without regard to whether they were free by virtue of service in the army, rebellious masters or by any other cause. The State courts deny the validity of his action, and as they still recognize the institution of slavery as existing in the State, are now enforcing the laws which prevent employers from hiring slaves without the consent of the masters. Innumerable law suits are the consequence; while those who wish to procure labor, deprived of their own negroes by military authority, are prevented from hiring others by civil authority, and the freedmen roam the country or congregate in camps, become demoralized, and either steal or starve. As the negroes thus freed cannot by any possibility be reënslaved, the only solution of the matter is to suspend the action of the State Courts until the Legislature, which meets in November, can pass the constitutional amendment. Kentucky is the greatest sufferer in the South from the hide-bound tenacity with which she clings to a dead institution.

DISPOSAL OF QUARTERMASTER'S STORES.

The following order of the Secretary of War was promulgated yesterday:

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, Oct. 10, 1865.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 147.—The Quartermaster's Department will turn over to its officers on duty in the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, on requisitions approved by the Commissioner, such quartermaster's stores on hand, and clothing, camp and garrison equipage, unfit to issue to troops, as may be required to enable such officers to perform their public duties, and provide for the immediate necessities of destitute refugees and freedmen temporarily dependent on the government. All stores so received will be accounted for in like manner as stores drawn from the Quartermaster's Department.

By order of the Secretary of War.

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SALE OF STEAMERS.

The Navy Department will close out its sale of steamers and sailing vessels, by disposing of twenty-two at public auction in New-York on the 25th inst. They will be sold to the highest bidder, without reserve. A larger number of vessels have been sold here than elsewhere above the assessed value of the government inspectors.

OFFICERS TO BE MUSTERED OUT.

Though the military establishment will be largely reduced by the muster out of all colored troops not needed for garrison duty, it is quite probable that a still further reduction will shortly be attained, especially in respect of general and staff officers. The commands of so many of the prominent officers have become so insignificant that they are ashamed of them, and there is less aversion to being mustered out than existed a few months ago.

The Second and Twenty-third Regiments of colored troops have been ordered by the War Department to report here for muster out and final payment. They are daily expected, and will be mustered out by Major R. H. WILBUR.

THE EXHIBITION IN PARIS.

The Secretary of State has recently distributed a pamphlet concerning the Paris Universal Exhibition in 1867, in which it was announced that all applications of citizens of the United States must be filed at Paris before the 31st of October inst. In thus publishing the correspondence, Mr. SEWARD felt it to be his duty to call attention to the passage to that effect in one of Mr. BIGELOW'S dispatches. It is presumed, however, that the Imperial Commission will accede to a request which has been made through our Minister at Paris for an extension of time for applications from the United States; and that even if they should be made to do so, Mr. BECKWITH, our Special Commissioner at Paris, can draw up the general plan of organization required by the programme, before the 31st of this month, in such a manner as to provide for the admission of applications from the United States which may be made before January, 1866, or which may be received at Paris in time to be included, if accepted by our agents, in the detailed plan of arrangements required by the Imperial Commission from Mr. BECKWITH before the 31st of the last named month.

As stated in an official notice published a few days ago, J. C. DERBY, Esq., the United States Dispatch Agent at New-York, No. 5 Spruce-street, has been appointed Agent for the Exposition in the United States. All applications to exhibit and for information should therefore be addressed to him. He is authorized to decide upon the admissibility of such applications.

With regard to the question of transportation the programme gives until the 6th of March, 1867, for the admission of foreign products at French seaports; and Congress will therefore have ample time to decide whether they will, as heretofore on the occasion of exhibitions of such magnitude, provide free transportation for articles going from the United States.

It would thus appear that the inventors and producers of the United States have only to make up their minds and notify Mr. DERBY, with reasonable promptness, as to what they propose to send, to secure the advantages of being represented at an exhibition which will probably surpass all of its predecessors in splendor and importance.

BEET SUGAR.

The Commissioner of Agriculture has received from Illinois a specimen of loaf sugar manufactured from the beet. The sugar is of snowy whiteness and beautifully christalized, equaling anything produced from the sugar cane. It is claimed that this beet sugar can be produced at less cost than that made from cane.

THE NASHVILLE WHISKY CASE.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue refuses to accept the $135,000 offered as a settlement of the Nashville whisky tax frauds. Double the amount would be nearer the sum the government is entitled to.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN.

Hon. A. W. RANDALL, First Assistant Postmaster-General; will take the stump in New-Jersey the present week, next week in New-York, and devote the last week of the political campaign to vigorous work in Wisconsin. Gov. RANDALL is one of the most effective speakers in the country.

STEPHENS COMING TO WASHINGTON.

Messrs. STEPHENS and REAGAN, released from Fort Warren on Friday, have not yet reached this city, but are expected to do so to-morrow.

Chief-Justice CHASE has returned to Washington.

PARDONS.

The President granted about nine hundred pardons last week. This makes the total number thus far granted thirty-five hundred.

THE VIRGINIA ELECTION.

Gov. PEIRPOINT, of Virginia, was in the city yesterday. He expresses himself as quite well satisfied with the result of the election in Virginia, especially in the Richmond District, which elected Mr. BARBOUR. It is estimated that five out of the eight candidates elected can take the test oath.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The receipts of internal revenue for the past week fall to $6,000,000.

REDEMPTION.

The certificates of indebtedness redeemed during the week amount to $4,697,920.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

The Slumbering Volcano Almost Bursting Forth—Adroit Management—A Stormy Day and Nothing Done.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Saturday, Oct. 14, 1865.

To-day's session has been one of stormy debate, much noise and very little done. Yesterday's proceedings were devoid of interest, except for the adroit management in which the question of a day of Thanksgiving was managed, for although I omitted mention of that fact, in my letter of yesterday, from accidentally mislaying the manuscript copy of the message and resolution, it having been brought up almost at the very hour of adjourning, the fact is even now worthy of notice, inasmuch as the Associated Press was asleep, and never furnished the New-York press with a copy of the resolution.

As I wrote you, the closing hour's of yesterdays' session were taken up by a confused and perplexing debate upon the New-York Episcopal Seminary. The confusion and dryness of the subject drove many of the members away, and just as the convention was about to adjourn, a message from the House of Bishops was announced, the purport of which was simply the setting apart of Tuesday next, the 17th inst., for a day of Thanksgiving for peace and reunion. A concurrent resolution was immediately offered and passed by the small quorum present, without debate or a dissenting vote. So the session closed.

But this morning the signs were portentous of a coming storm, which were smothered until the minutes had been read, and a special committee report on freedmen was referred to the Committee on Foreign Missions. Then came a black cloud that darkened the whole day's proceedings. Mr. HORACE BINNEY, of Pennsylvania, rose and offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That this house, in most cordially concurring, as it has done, in the resolution of the House of Bishops, appointing a day of thanksgiving for the return of peace to the country, and unity to the Church, most respectfully expresses to the House of Bishops its earnest desire that in the religious services to be appointed for the day, especial thanks be offered to Almighty God for the reëstablishment of the national authority over our whole country, and for the removal of that great occasion of national dissension and estrangement to which our late troubles were due.

To say that this created a row would fail to give an idea of the excitement of which it was the innocent cause. A dozen delegates jumped up to cry it down, some wanted it withdrawn, others would have it laid on the table. The house was in an uproar, and the tempest raged for some minutes. At length Judge CHAMBERS, of Maryland, moved to lay the resolution on the table, which was announced by the President as carried. The Pennsylvania delegation thereupon called for the yeas and nays, and this again kicked up a muss, in the midst of which Mr. BINNEY said a great deal had been said already, but that there are truths to which no utterance have yet been given. Mr. BINNEY was loudly called to order. Rev. Dr. GOODWIN asked if the question had been taken. If it had he called for its reconsideration. Rev. Dr. BURGESS hoped there would be no reconsideration. Judge BATTLE, of North Carolina, moved to lay the motion to reconsider on the table. Hon. Mr. RUGGLES called for a second reading of the resolution. It was again read by the Secretary. Dr. CUMMINS rose to a question of privilege, but was noisily called to order. Hon. Mr. BRUNOT tried to ask a question, but was also noisily interrupted. Rev. Dr. GOODWIN asked if such a course as was proposed would not finally settle the question. The Chair decided that it could not be brought up to-day, but could be hereafter.

The yeas and nays having been called for, they were taken; the question being on the motion to lay the motion to reconsider on the table, the effect of the passage of which would be to prevent the question being taken up again during the session of the present convention, according to a well-established Parliamentary rule.

The result of the vote by dioceses was as follows:

Clerical, 20 yeas, 6 nays.

Lay, 15 yeas, 7 nays.

Thus ended the trouble, and while the members drew a long breath and began settling down in their seats, Rev. Dr. MEADE brought up the order of the day, the General Theological Seminary. He was interrupted by Judge BATTLE, of North Carolina, who said it was 12 o'clock, and time for the special order of the day, the military canon, as it has been christened. Dr. VINTON said it would take but a few minutes to finish, and he hoped the Seminary report would be disposed of. The consideration of the new constitution of the Theological Seminary was thereupon continued. The various articles were disposed of, and on motion of Rev. Dr. RANDALL, the amended constitution was ordered to be printed and made the order of the day for Wednesday next, at 12 o'clock.

A message of the House of Bishops was received, fixing New-York as the place of the next meeting of the Triennial Convention, with the concurrence of the Lower House.

THE MILITARY CANON

then came up. Judge BATTLE asked for the reading of the amendment. The Secretary stated that the motion was to lay the whole subject on the table. He explained that Dr. VINTON'S amendment prohibits any clergyman holding a military commission. Judge BATTLE said he objected to the canon because it was not sufficiently explicit. It was not clear whether it included the case of those who may be drafted. I contend that all government is ordained of God, and that what it enacts must be obeyed by all alike, churchman or civilian. The government has a right to call for every able-bodied man in the land if it needs him. I am as much opposed to what are called "fighting parsons" as anybody, but I believe every man is bound to aid in defending his country, clerical or lay. It may be said that because I come from a State lately in rebelion, I ought not to speak in this way. It matters not where a doctrine comes from if it is a good doctrine.

A message from the House of Bishops was received, as follows:

Resolved, The House of Clerical and Lay Deputies concurring, That this convention learns with great satisfaction, by information from various sources, that there is much encouragement to hope for a return of the Italian Churches to the primitive purity of doctrine, discipline and worship, together with their revival in Christian liberty and zeal; that it heartily sympathizes with the earnest members of those Churches, both of the clergy and of the laity, who are laboring to that effect; and that it humbly prays the great Head of the Church to crown the efforts now making in that direction with His blessing.

Resolved, That the Secretary communicate the foregoing resolution to the House of Clerical and Lay Delegates.

Rev. Dr. WHARTON moved that the message be referred to a committee of three, Dr. HIGBEE, Chairman. Adopted. The debate then went on regarding the military canon.

Gov. HUNT, of New-York, desired the attention of the house to a point not properly understood. He asked if there is any law that compels a clergyman to bear arms against his will? There is not. And almost immediately after, he said the law was changed, and the exemption feature abolished. All were compelled to find substitutes, but we again determined to raise a fund for this purpose. But we first asked Secretary STANTON to assign drafted clergymen to such positions as were in harmony with their office. Mr. STANTON responded in the most generous manner. To see a clergyman drawn from the sacred desk and placed under the drill of a profane sergeant, would be a most painful spectacle; I trust we may be spared any such sight. Can we reconcile ourselves to seeing such a clergyman returning with bloody and sacrilegious hands to minister at the altar of God? He denied that the canon was aimed against the government, and he would vote against it if it was.

Dr. KEHFOOT again urged his amendment, including candidates for orders in the canon, and he thought there might be a question whether the government was always morally right in exercising its legal right.

Judge OTIS wanted the word "any" inserted before the word "service," and stated his reason therefor was because an English clergyman, out West, had said that, in the event of a war with England, he would enter the British army. [Laughter.]

Rev. Dr. KEENE, of Wisconsin, was loth to believe any real difference among delegates on the question. It was enough to declare the principle of the Church, and the government would always deal fairly with ministers of the gospel.

Rev. Dr. ADAMS made one of his characteristic speeches. He wished to know what was really before the house. In reference to the original subject, it suited him very well; but the framers of the canon have not gone to the bottom of this subject. There should not have been any reference to the United States, or to the vague idea of "entering the service." The committee have been embarrassed by this all through. The principle of the Church is that no clergyman shall bear arms, that is the straightforward way of putting it. I take ground simply on this principle, that any layman may bear arms, but a clergyman may not under any circumstances.

Dr. CLARKSON, Assistant Secretary, wanted the vote taken at 1:50 P. M., (hour of adjournment.)

Dr. ADAMS was desirous of proceeding, and went away back to the middle ages instead. Mr. JUDD, of Illinois, and Mr. OLIVER, of Kansas, wanted speakers limited to ten minutes each. The Secretary said it only wanted five minutes of 2 o'clock then, so it would be useless to put that motion. [Cries of "Question."] Mr. RUGGLES said really he did not understand what was meant, and he wanted to know if chaplains could go to war, without arms, and was told "Yes." A motion to lay the canon on the table was lost, as was an indefinite postponement, and it was eventually made the order of the day for Monday, at 11 o'clock. Bishop STEVENS' sermon, delivered at the consecration of Bishop QUINTARD, was ordered to be printed, and so the convention adjourned. Result of the day very small. G. F. W.

Marine Disasters.

BOSTON, Sunday, Oct. 15.

The schooner Joseph Fish, of St. George, from Philadelphia, with 1,200 bbls. petroleum oil, was run into by the bark Schamyl, from New-Orleans, while at anchor in Nantasket Roads this morning. She immediately took fire by the overturning of the stove, and was totally destroyed. The Schamyl had her foremast sprung, and commenced leaking, so that in a few hours she had three feet and a half of water in the hold.

PROVIDENCE, Sunday, Oct. 15.

The brig Humboldt, of Bucksport, from Bangor for Newport, went ashore last night two miles east off Brenton's Reef, and went to pieces this morning. The crew was saved. Part of her cargo of lumber will be secured.

FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

Opinions about the Freedmen's Bureau—Difficulty about Registered Voters.

NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, Oct. 14.

Mr. WATTERSON, the Special Agent of the government, sent to inquire into the condition of Southern affairs, left yesterday afternoon, after a short stay. It is understood that his opinion the Freedmen's Bureau is, that it is an unnecessary burden to the government.

The Provost-Marshal has ordered an inspection of the city registered voters, with a view to strike from the rolls the names of a certain portion charged with acts of disloyalty antecedent to the President's amnesty proclamation, and of those who in 1862 registered themselves enemies of the United States. This would strike off a fifth of the registered voters of the city. Gov. WELLES protests against this as an interference with an established State law. If the Provost-Marshal persists, Gov. WELLES will appeal to the President.

Steamer Sunk.

CAIRO, Ill., Saturday, Oct. 14.

The steamer Huntress sunk on the wreck of the Black Hawk in this harbor, last night. The cargo will probably be saved in a damaged condition.

THE OCTOBER ELECTIONS.

Further and Better News from Pennsylvania.

The Majority Greater than that for Lincoln.

It will Probably be Nearly Twenty-five Thousand.

Ohio Coming Up to About Thirty Thousand.

COLD COMFORT FOR COPPERHEADS.

PHILADELPHIA, Sunday, Oct. 15.

Mr. JOHN CESSNA, Chairman of the Union Central Committee, furnishes the following information to the Associated Press:

The result of the late election in Pennsylvania has not been correctly reported. Forty-two counties (official) overcome the majority of 1862, and leave the Union candidates a clear majority of 17,000. The reported majorities in the balance of the State, twenty-four counties, give 5,000 to 7,000 Union majority. The majority on the home vote will certainly exceed that of President LINCOLN on the home and army vote by several thousands. The Union party will have two-thirds of both branches of the Legislature. The Union party gains in thirty-eight of forty-two counties, officially returned.

The Election in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Friday, Oct. 13.

So far as heard from, the election shows Union gains in the darkest corners of the State. The Legislature will not be changed. There were eight Representatives and one Senator to elect. The Republicans have gained a member in Clinton and lost one in Johnson. The Senator has been replaced by the election of A. JULIAN, Republican.

The Ohio Election.

COLUMBUS, Friday, Oct. 13.

There are only seven more counties to hear from, but these will hardly add anything to the Union majority for COX, which has now reached 28,600.

The Union Majority in Iowa.

DESMOINES, Iowa, Saturday, Oct. 14.

The majority for Gov. STONE, who boldly advocated negro suffrage, will be 15,000. The balance of the Republican ticket is elected by nearly 20,000 majority.

The Virginia Election.

RICHMOND, Va., Sunday, Oct. 15.

No additional returns from the Sixth and Eighth Districts have been received. JOHN BALDWIN, Ex-Member of the Confederate Congress, has been elected to the House of Delegates for Augusta County.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

An Execution—The Elections in Norfolk and Portsmouth.

FORTRESS MONROE, Friday, Oct. 13.

Corporal JOHN SHEPHERD, of the Thirty-eighth United States Colored Regiment, was hung this morning at Camp Hamilton, for rape committed last April near Richmond.

Proposals for the sale of 1,715 barrels of whisky were opened to-day by Commissary CURRY. Thirty-nine proposals were made at good prices, covering 10,295 barrels. The successful bidders will be notified by mail.

The elections in Norfolk and Portsmouth passed off quietly yesterday. The vote was small. L. H. CHANDLER, for Congress, leads with a handsome majority. Messrs. HURST and LANGHAM were elected to the House of Delegates from Portsmouth, Va. CHANDLER'S majority in Petersburgh is over 100.

The question of introduction of water into Norfolk was decided in the affirmative by a decided majority. But little opposition was shown to altering the third article of the constitution permitting Confederate officers to become eligible to office in the State.

The Hill-Yancey Affair.

From the Montgomery Advertiser.

Mr. YANCEY and Mr. HILL did have a difficulty, in the Confederate Senate, not, however, upon the discussion of the Navy Bill, but of the Supreme Court Bill. Mr. YANCEY had spoken; Mr. HILL in reply reviewed Mr. YANCEY'S record in a style which was regarded as offensive by Senators. Mr. YANCEY arose, when Mr. HILL had taken his seat, and remarked that as other Senators desired to speak on that question, he would not consume the time of the Senate then, but that at a proper time he would endeavor to do justice both to the Senator from Georgia and to himself. He desired only to say then, that the assertions of the Senator from Georgia, in regard to what he was pleased to term his autobiography, were false, and he knew them to be false when he made them.

Mr. HILL responded quickly from his seat, that he threw the falsehood back in his face. Upon motion, the Senate went into secret session. Mr. YANCEY was then appealed to to adjust the matter, but reiterated what he had said, and took his seat. Thereupon Mr. HILL, unexpectedly to Mr. YANCEY or any one else, threw a heavy glass inkstand, which struck Mr. YANCEY on his side face, bruising it, and causing the blood to flow profusely, but not knocking him down or doing any serious injury. Mr. YANCEY rushed at Mr. HILL, but was prevented from striking him, and here the fight ended.

A committee was appointed, and retired to report what was due to the Senate for a breach of decorum. Whilst they were out various speeches were made to reconcile the parties. Mr. YANCEY was for a long time inexorable, but when appeals were made to him as to the effect which a rupture would have upon the cause, he was disposed to yield to the importunities of friends. To aggravate the matter, the committee reported, censuring both parties—Mr. YANCEY for the language he had used, and Mr. HILL for throwing the inkstand.

Mr. YANCEY protested against the report to the last; but it was finally accepted by the Senate, and was afterward reconsidered, and withdrawn upon condition that he would not prosecute his claim for personal redress any further; he reserving to himself the right to reply to Mr. HILL'S speech in public, which he afterward did, in a powerful and overwhelming effort. The Senate was engaged from about noon till midnight in the settlement of the affair.

Members were bound to secrecy, and no correct statement could be obtained except from some of them since the fall of the Confederacy has made all things public. We are confident, from the intimations we had at the time from confidential sources, that this account of the matter is fully as liberal to Mr. HILL as the recorded facts in the case, submitted to Mr. YANCEY'S protest to the Senate, would justify. The authentic record is probably among the private papers of Mr. YANCEY, but our statement is sufficiently accurate for present purposes, being had from the memory of a Senator who was an eye-witness, and is generally careful of facts.

It is thus apparent that this difficulty had no effect on Mr. YANCEY'S rapid decline in health. In fact, abundant testimony could be adduced, if necessary, from his physicians here, to show that he had been a prey to disease for years. He had a violent attack of a spinal disease while he was canvassing for the Washington Monument after the Presidential election in 1856, from which it was long doubted whether he would recover, and this completely racked and distorted his erect and small but powerful frame. He was affected for many years with the disease of the kidneys, from which he died. During his illness his pains were most excruciating, but he bore himself like a true Christian statesman

MONDAY, Oct. 16—A. M.

The Trade of the past week was very generally active. The receipts of Cotton were the heaviest of the season, 33,602 bales, and the exports of the same staple increased to 10,672 bales. The other exports of Produce were to a fair average, and the whole return is over four millions in value, exclusive of $800,000 California Gold bars received on Wednesday and transhipped for Europe on Friday and Saturday. The Import entries were quite large—over six millions in value. The Gold Customs of the week fell off from the heavy receipts of the week before to about two millions. The prospect is that October will yield at New-York about ten and a half millions. Thus far the amount is $5,682,655, with 14 business days to be added. The emigrant arrivals were light for the week. The trade demand for Money was fairly supplied at 7@9 ℔ cent. ℔ annum, while the supply to the Stock Exchange was unusually stringent on Thursday and Friday on the Railways at 7 per cent., while Government Stocks advanced on this change in the market, and the 5-20s of 1862 rose to 105⅛, and of 1864 to 103⅞@103¾, both ex-dividend. The rates of Exchange were 109¼@109¾ ℔ cent. for standard names for the mails of Saturday, and 108¾@109 for good merchant and transient Bank bills on England.

The funding of Legal Tender paper into U. S. 5-20 Bonds is going on at a rate which nearly insures the $50,000,000 advertised for by the Secretary of the Treasury at 103 ℔ cent., before the 1st November. The Compound Notes are held with much firmness, however, by the public; and the Bankers and Brokers engaged in funding will probably have to advance their offers to bring them out. The Secretary, in his speech at Fort Wayne, indicates a purpose to continue the funding process, after consulting Congress early in the ensuing session; and the increasing favor with which our Gold-bearing Stocks are taken up, both at home and abroad, and the ample condition of the Gold revenues of the Government, will greatly encourage this policy, independent of the consideration due to the higher object of the Secretary to gradually consolidate his temporary obligations and as gradually contract his Legal Tender paper.

The Import Entries of the past week, including the Dry Goods return in our last paper, amount to $6,137,642, as against the total entries of $2,964,598, same week last year. The Export Clearances of Domestic Produce amount to $4,160,090, against $5,452,800 same week last year. The export of Specie amounts to $812,120, against $239,492 same week last year. The Customs for the week are $1,991,739. The receipts of Cotton, coastwise and by railroad, are 33,602 bales. The number of emigrant passengers arrived during the week is 3,329.

The Import entries of Foreign Merchandise at New-York since the 1st of January are officially (to 1st September) and semi-officially (since) reported, as follows—the small entries of Foreign Specie being omitted:

The Customs Revenue of the United States for the fourth quarter of the last Fiscal Year, ending June 30, 1865, having been officially published, we now publish the Gold Revenue for the year, complete:

	At New-York.	Outports.	Total

April 1 to June 30, 1865	22,577,309	7,633,078	30,140,387
Total Fiscal Year	$61,578,366	$23,476,784	$85,055,150
Average per centage collected at New-York			71.73
Average per centage collected at Outports			72.27
Total			100 ℔ cent.

The result is about a million less than the official and estimated figures which we published at the close of the year. On the other hand, the result is thirteen millions ahead of the Secretary of the Treasury's estimate in his annual report in December last, when the official figures of the First Quarter only were known to him, and the signs of trade in the Second Quarter were unpromising for revenue.

The Calendar year 1865, embracing the third and fourth quarters of the last, and first and second quarters of the current Fiscal terms, promises to yield one hundred and fifty-four millions, or an average of twelve millions per month, viz.:

FREEDMEN AND COTTON LANDS IN GEORGIA—A GOOD CHANCE TO MAKE 1,000 BALES OF COTTON.—I am offering my cotton plantations in Southwestern Georgia, containing 4,100 acres of good cotton lands; some 1,800 opened on the place. There is a cane-brake on the place of 1,000 acres, when cleared up will bring one bale of cotton to the acre; a good little grist mill to grind for the plantation; a sugar mill and fixtures; some fine rice land and sugar, when opened; good water; peach orchard and apple. There are two good settlements, with good frame houses; gin houses one mile apart; in fact, everything complete for the making of cotton. The plantation is some 8½ miles from the Southwestern Railroad, immediately on Flint River, in Dooly County, Ga. There are about 100 freedmen on the place, who can be hired low, and others in the country round the place. I also offer my plantation in Louisiana, containing 2,050 acres of good farming land, some 900 acres in a fine state of cultivation, about 1,000 acres of good swamp and hammock lands; will produce 2,000 pounds of cotton per acre; some 500 acres opened. The place lies about 12 to 14 miles from Red River, south of Shreevesport, 60 miles; 3½ miles from Pleasant Hill; good schools and churches; some 100 freedmen on the place and others around the plantation who can be hired low; horse mill and sugar mill, with all the fixtures. I will sell, if desired, mules, cows, hogs, corn, fodder and all the plantation fixtures on both plantations. Any further information desired, call on G. B. CARHART, President of the New-Haven Railroad, or TRACY IRVIN & CO., No. 400 Broadway, or SAMUEL ROOSEVELT, No. 7 Barclay-st. I can be found at No. 400 Broadway. W. W. CHAPMAN.

The building is 130 feet by 180, modeled after the Parthenon, crowning the beautiful hill, and from its colonade affords spiendid views of the city and surrounding country of the Hudson from the Catskills to the Highlands, and the bluffs and shore across the river. Travelers pronounce it one of the most charming locations in the world. For a school or college site it is unsurpassed. The same may be said of it as a Summer boarding-house, a first-class hotel, or for some of our many public benevolent institutions. Apply to

NEWS OF THE DAY.

GENERAL NEWS.

Our Washington correspondent says: "The last disgraceful scene in the WIRZ trial took place yesterday. Mr. BAKER, the prisoner's counsel, an obscene pettifogger, who foisted himself into the case for personal notoriety, was all but ejected from the court for his contumacious conduct. It was not until a motion to pitch him out had been made and seconded that he subsided. The evidence was then closed, and BAKER demanded two weeks in which to prepare his argument. The Court first offered him ten days, and then twelve, both of which he refused, and the Judge-Advocate was then requested to prepare the argument for both sides, and announced that he would be in readiness to do so on Wednesday next, to which day the court adjourned."

Returns from the election held in Virginia, Thursday, indicate the election of Union candidates for Congress in at least three and perhaps in five districts. In the Seventh Congressional District (Alexandria and other neighboring Counties) it would seem that the voters have gone through the child's play of electing a candidate (CONRAD) who was one of the signers of the ordinance of secession, who cannot take the oath.

The vote of Connecticut on permitting negroes to vote (which is the only consolatory fact for the Democracy in the year's history) is not looked upon by the friends of the proposition as so dreadfully discouraging, after all. They fail by about 7,000 majority. In 1857, upon a similar contest, the adverse majority was nearly 14,000. And so they propose to pick their flints and try again.

A serious railroad accident occurred on Saturday afternoon near Lancaster, Penn. A passenger train was thrown from the track by the breaking of an axle, occasioning the death of nine persons, and the injury of several others.

The steamboat disaster on the Sacramento River proves to have been more dangerous than it was at first reported. The number of killed was fifty-four, and a large number of passengers were seriously wounded.

Messrs. STEPHENS and REAGAN were released from Fort Warren on Friday, and not the day previous, as reported. The parties stopped at the Revere House Friday night, and left for Washington Saturday morning.

The great firemen's parade in Philadelphia, to-day, creates much interest. The city is overflowing with people who have gone there, either as participants or spectators. It is expected that there will be fully two hundred companies in line.

The income of the government from internal revenue through the past week amounted to $5,973,817, making a total of $106,909,149 since the commencement of the current fiscal year, July 1.

The steamship George Cromwell, from New-Orleans on the 7th inst., arrived at this port Saturday afternoon. She brings $10,500 in specie.

Another earthquake occurred on the 12th inst. in Santa Clara Valley, Cal. It is described as being very severe, and was slightly felt at San Francisco.

A resolution was passed on Saturday in the North Carolina Convention, requesting the President to remove all negro troops from the State.

FROM EUROPE.

The Nova Scotian, from Liverpool Oct. 5, arrived off Father Point yesterday, bringing five days' later intelligence. American securities had experienced a slight decline, Five-twenties selling at 69½@70. The publication in American papers of the list of subscribers to the rebel loan produced an immense excitement in England. The London Times emphatically denies that any of its editors held any of that stock, and Mr. GLADSTONE requests that his name be removed from the list, as he had nothing to do with it. Mr. DONALD MCKAY is still endeavoring to demonstrate to the Lords of the Admiralty the utility of American torpedoes as a means of defending harbors.

LOCAL NEWS.

The usual Saturday night murder was committed at about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, JOHN RAMMING, of No. 372 Hudson-street, keeper of a lager-bier saloon, having been stabbed in the right eye by one AUGUST BUCKLEY. RAMMING lived about half an hour after receiving the wound. BUCKLEY escaped. Officer EDWARD BARBELET, of the Twenty-eighth Precinct, arrested MATHIAS CONNELLY, HUGH MCNELLIS, ROBERT BROWN and ROBERT ANDERSON, and they were committed, by Capt. DICKSON, to the cells in the Greenwich-street Police-station, to await the result of the inquest which Coroner COLLIN is to hold at 2 o'clock this afternoon. BUCKLEY, who has sometimes passed under the name of Hutchings, was until recently a Lieutenant in the Fifteenth New-York Volunteers.

The Case of "Our American Cousin," in which LAURA KEENE, the actress, is plaintiff, and Messrs. CLARK and STUART, of Winter Garden, are parties defendant, was up in the Superior Court again Saturday, before Justice MONCRIEF. After some pretty sharp talk by the counsel on either side, the argument as to the propriety of granting an absolute injunction to restrain Messrs. CLARK and STUART from continuing the performance of the drama in question, was postponed until next Saturday.

About 6 o'clock Saturday evening Mr. EDWARD H. SENIOR'S coffin manufactory, at No. 57 Downing-street, was totally consumed. Loss, about $15,000; insurance, $5,300, in the Greenwich Office. At about the same hour Mr. FERDINAND FAULKENMEYER'S looking-glass-frame manufactory, at No. 171 Suffolk-street, was slightly damaged by fire. Insurance, $800; but in what office does not appear. Both fires were of accidental origin.

FLORENCE MCCARTHY, of No. 45 Oak-street, while in a bar-room at Slaughter-house Point, No. 9 James-slip, at about 3 o'clock on Saturday morning, said that the Fenian Brotherhood ought to be drowned; and for this remark one DENNIS FOLEY, of No. 341 Water-street, stabbed him in the abdomen, inflicting a wound, which may prove mortal.

In the Court of Common Pleas, Saturday, the jury in the case of Mayer vs. The City of New-York, rendered a verdict of only $80. This was a riot claim, in which the plaintiff claimed about $1,500. The case, which has been before reported, has excited considerable interest by reason of the important questions of law involved.

At the Madison-avenue Baptist Church, last evening, Rev. JOHN H. CALDWELL and Hon. WILLIAM KING, both of Georgia, spoke on the condition and wants of the people of the South, both white and colored. The meeting was under the auspices of the American Union Commission.

WILLIAM FOX, of No. 504 Greenwich-street, was found dead in a gutter, yesterday morning, at the intersection of Greenwich and Canal streets. An inquest was held by Coroner COLLIN, and the jury found that FOX died of suffocation.

East Houston-street yielded another stabbing case on Saturday night, MAGGIE GREENWOOD, an inmate of EVA BACON'S place, having been stabbed in the stomach by one WILLIAM RYNDER.

Coroner WILDEY held an inquest, yesterday, over the body of DUKE GILMORE, of Eleventh-avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-seventh-street. GILMORE was accidentally buried under an embankment.

Under the testimony of ISAAC GOLDMAN, of No. 133 Suffolk-street, one MOSES EDDSTIEN, of No. 79 Elizabeth-street, peddler, was committed for examination by Justice DOWLING on a charge of arson.

In the Eighteenth Ward riot, on Friday night, PETER BRAY received a severe wound in the left side at the hands, it is said, of PATRICK CLARK.

The price of gold was dull on Saturday at 144⅞@144½. Money in fair supply to the brokers. Government 5-20s advanced to 105½, late in the day, and the Railways left off firmer.

The Registry of Votes.

We call the attention of every voter to the absolute necessity of registering his name at the poll where he expects to vote. The law of last Winter makes this imperative. No man can vote on election day whose name has not been registered previously; and this must be done, in every case, by the voter in person. Old registers are of no avail nor can any other person have your name registered. You must attend to it yourself, if you expect to vote. This may seem a stringent law, but it was necessary for the prevention of fraud. To-morrow is the day for registering.

Democratic Professions of Friendship for President Johnson.

The Democrats in this State profess to be supporters of President JOHNSON and his policy; and they think it very hard that his old friends doubt their sincerity. There is one feature in their canvass which renders it impossible not to doubt it; and that is, their extreme anxiety to drive Union men away from him. If they were really his friends, they would join his old friends, instead of trying to make them his enemies. If they were really desirous that he should be supported, they would act with those who have given him all the support he has received hitherto, instead of insisting that he shall throw them overboard. The man who, in private life, should pretend friendship for another, and begin to show it by alienating every friend he had already, would be set down and kicked out unceremoniously, as a scheming impostor.

The War was carried through and the rebellion crushed without the help of the Democratic party. Individuals in its ranks were patriotic and loyal; but its organization,—its action as a party, was thoroughly disloyal from beginning to end. Its sympathies were with the rebels. It encouraged them in their action. It aided them by discouraging the North. It embarrassed the government in raising men and money. It denounced the draft, it belittled our victories and magnified our disasters, and, when the time came for a final test of the nation's capacity to preserve its own existence, it declared the war a failure and demanded a suspension of hostilities and a convention for compromise. Now if, when all this was over, the Democratic party had come forward and declared itself content with the result and willing to join those who had achieved it, in sustaining the administration in what remains to be accomplished, they might have commanded the confidence and respect of the country. If their chief anxiety had been to sustain President JOHNSON'S administration and give success to its policy, they would have adopted this course. They would have said to the Union party of this State, for example,—"we are in favor of sustaining the administration:—we desire to make our support effective and useful to the President and his policy:—we will gladly join you in such action as will best reach this result. If you will nominate a ticket and adopt a platform which shall represent that support, and indorse the President thoroughly and heartily, we will support it. Or if you consent, we will meet you on that common ground, and by joint action of our two conventions select a ticket and adopt a platform on which we can both agree, and for which both can vote; and then its triumphant success will give the President the best assurance he can possibly have that his policy meets the unqualified approval of this great State." If they had been sincere in their professions, they would have done this; and if they had done this, their support would have been of immense value to the President and the country.

But their action was very different. Instead of attempting to act with the Union party, their sole effort is to overthrow it. Instead of recognizing its services in saving the nation, they malign and denounce it. Instead of trying to secure its support to the President, for whom they profess so much devotion, they are straining every nerve to drive it away—to implant in the minds of its members distrust of the President, and to destroy his faith in their friendship. Their aim is to alienate and divide his friends instead of strengthening and bringing them together. Is this the tone and temper of true friends?

The aim of this Democratic movement is to break up the Union party, to destroy those who have been President JOHNSON'S only friends hitherto, and to get him into their sole and exclusive control. If they can do this, they, and not he, are thenceforth masters of the situation. They propose to repeat upon him precisely the trick which they practiced with such brilliant success upon JOHN TYLER and MILLARD FILLMORE. Both these Vice-Presidents were taken up by the Democracy, when the Presidents with whom they had been elected died. The policy of both was indorsed, and the supporters of both were denounced. Both were flattered with the promise of a Democratic nomination, and both were weak enough to listen and yield to the temptation. Both were used unscrupulously to betray their principles and their friends: and when the time came, both were remorselessly thrown, like squeezed oranges, into the gutter. The game they are trying upon President JOHNSON is precisely the same. They want the offices he has in his gift. In his election they were utterly defeated and overthrown. Unless they can get office and power, there is not the slightest chance of their resurrection. If they can secure appointments and so much of his countenance as will give them this State, they will take things into their own hands. His friends, having been scattered and overthrown, they will have him at their mercy:—and the power he gives them will be used for his destruction.

There are two safeguards against the success of these schemes. One is the character of President JOHNSON himself; the other is in the character of the party which elected and supports him. President JOHNSON is not a man to be manipulated and used for the personal and selfish ends of any party. He can neither be flattered nor deceived into turning his back upon his friends or throwing himself into the arms of his enemies. He has too much natural sagacity and too much political experience to confide in the safety,—as well as too much personal honor, to accept the principle, of such a cause. Every President must have the support of some great political organization to make his administration successful; and he may wisely and properly do everything consistent with principle, to win support for its policy and reinforcements for its ranks. But so long as the Union party of the nation are true to him, so long, they may rely upon it, will President JOHNSON be true to them. So long as they stand by his administration and support his policy, they will not find him indifferent to their friendship or seeking new alliances with any other party. Of course, it is impossible to say but that, at some future time, the Union party may be foolish enough to divide upon some of the many political issues which the future is sure to bring forth, and to refuse to the administration the support it has hitherto received; and when that time shall come, it will inevitably give rise to new political organizations and combinations. But that time has not come yet. The Union party stands now as it stood through the war, and through the last Presidential canvass, unwavering and immovable in its support of President JOHNSON and his Administration. In all its public action,—in its conventions, and through all the channels authorized to speak in its behalf, it has declared this purpose. So far as this State is concerned, its language upon this point at the Syracuse Convention, was explicit and unequivocal; and that language has been indorsed and echoed in every county and town convention throughout the State.

If the Democratic party of this State is sincere in its promise of support to President JOHNSON, it will be a most fortunate circumstance for the Administration and for the country at large. We shall welcome it, after it has been duly tested, as of the utmost consequence; for, properly brought into harmonious coöperation with the Union party, it will secure the speedy restoration of peace and union, and lay the foundation for a political system of administration which cannot be overthrown in twenty years. But if that support is sincere, it will stand the test of a party defeat. Let us see how the Democrats behave after the failure of their attempt to drive the Union party from the support of the President. Let us see whether they will support him then as zealously as they profess to support him now. We can then judge better whether they are really anxious to sustain the President or only eager to clutch the spoils of office.

Mr. McCulloch at Fort Wayne.

The speech of Secretary MCCULLOCH to his old neighbors at Fort Wayne will attract the attention due to the important financial position which this gentleman occupies. We believe it will be well received throughout the country. It should give renewed assurance to all conservative and prudent people that the blame will not be with the Administration at Washington if our finances are not gradually but surely consolidated, and the currency improved without panic or expansion in any direction. It is already sufficiently evident that Mr. MCCULLOCH is not a finance minister of extremes either way. The sudden close of the war surrounded his movements through the Spring and Summer with embarrassments and anxieties. The former related not to the ability, but the readiest and least costly means of raising a very large amount of money; the latter to the importance and duty of paying off our vast armies and navies before, or as soon, as they could be reduced to the peace establishment and were disbanded. The appropriations to the united service designed for six months or a year, were suddenly crowded into a few weeks, and six hundred millions of money had to be raised for the new fiscal year before the old year had closed on the 30th June.

The emergency was bravely met by the Secretary and his indefatigable Loan Agent, and without the slightest disturbance to the money market or the great movements of trade. The money was raised; the arrearages of debt all paid off; the army and navy reduced, and the extent or measure of the great War Debt known before the Summer had ended. There has been no borrowing since August. The finances of the government have become self-sustaining. Taxation will hereafter support the ordinary expenses of the government, and the customs will bear the full charge of the interest on the Public Debt, and contribute no inconsiderable surplus to the gradual reduction of the principal.

But the Public Debt, though fully measured, is not yet consolidated, nor its relation to the currency determined. It was left at the close of the war in a condition not of Mr. MCCULLOCH'S choice or seeking. There was too small a portion of it funded. There was too large a portion in the shape of currency. The fault was perhaps inseparable from the gloomy financial trials of 1864. The predecessors of Mr. MCCULLOCH were anxious to fund a larger sum. They believed our gold customs, even then, would have authorized it. But the clamor of an opposition then working to arrest the war and overturn the Administration, was so far successful as to impair, for the moment, the public confidence, and to compel the use of a much larger amount of temporary paper than was either desirable or—as the sequel of the customs revenue for the year proved—really needful. The funding process, which should have gone on then, has now been resumed. It will be made gradual, (for Mr. MCCULLOCH does nothing in such haste as to create confusion or alarm,) but not the less effective. And while we repeat that his speech will give general satisfaction to the country at large, we believe there is nothing in his views of the future to disturb the even tenor of legitimate trade and enterprise.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION ON NATIONAL AFFAIRS.—The warm discussion which took place on Saturday, in the Episcopal Convention, shows how little of the political element, introduced into such a body, it takes to stir up a keen party division. Up to the day named, the proceedings of the convention had been characterized by unusual harmony—unusual for an ecclesiastical assembly. The sectional division of the Church, which dated from the beginning of the civil insurrection, seemed to have been fairly in the way of being healed by mutual forbearance. And this conciliatory temper in the earlier sessions of the convention may have been only temporarily banished by Saturday's discussion. It is, nevertheless, perfectly manifest by the tenor and the result of that discussion, that much more has to be forborne by the members, lay and clerical, of the Episcopal Church, than they had anticipated in restoring a healthy and perfect union between the Northern and Southern branch of the Church. The naming of a day of thanksgiving for the general mercies of Providence might have been supposed to be the question of all others least likely to evoke discordant views. And yet, the simple fact of a Northern member's proposing that the observances of the day should include a common expression of thankfulness on the part of the Church for a restored Union, was regarded as a brand of discord. And a pacific solution of the difficulty was only reached by a majority consenting to lay the resolution aside.

It is not within our province to say whether such a resolution was expedient. It is simply left to us to note the fact that in the business of reconstruction the Church makes less apparent progress than the State. And still, it is impossible not to admire the elevated tone which has marked the deliberations generally of this Episcopal Convention. There has been, as a rule, marked calmness and self-restraint in the speeches of both the lay and clerical delegates. And perhaps they have traveled, as a body, quite as fast and as far in the direction of peace and reunion as could have been looked for. They have, at the same time, shown us that compromise ground is not easy of attainment.

THE DEMOCRATIC COALITION—SIGNIFICANT DEVELOPMENTS.—It begins to be pretty clear that the purpose of the Democrats in their Albany movement was to regain power and office in this State, at whatever cost of principle. The professedly loyal portion of the party very unceremoniously kicked out of the convention everybody who seemed likely to oppose its action. The McKeon delegates went first, and then the Mozarters: and Tammany Hall pointed triumphantly to this achievement as proof that the character of the party had been restored.

But all this turns out to be only part of the machinery by which the grand result was to be attained. In spite of their apparent differences, Pilate and Herod have kissed and made friends again! Tammany and the WOOD Brothers are bargaining for the spoils. They have come to an agreement at last. Brother BEN is to be joint candidate for State Senator in the Fourth District, and FERNANDO is to be supported by both factions for MAYOR! All the other Senatorial districts, as well as a great variety of local offices, are surrendered to Tammany.

This bargain has been made on behalf of Tammany Hall by half a dozen of its controlling leaders. We shall see if that wing of the party dare ratify it. The credit of the Democratic party for loyalty is scarcely well enough established to stand such a trial. Its conversion is too recent—its roots have not yet struck quite deep enough to stand such a tempest as this would raise. Tammany, for herself, has hitherto kept a very fair record, so far as standing by the country in the war is concerned; it will hardly care to commit suicide so promptly and so effectually as it would by closing such a contract. BENJAMIN WOOD has already received the Mozart nomination for the Senate; we await with some interest its indorsement by Tammany.

As for the Mayoralty election, that is six weeks off, and promises are cheap. It is tolerably safe, even for Tammany, to deal with FERNANDO, so long as he is required to pay first.

WHITE LABOR WANTED AT THE SOUTH.—The most intelligent and thoughtful men of the South are already taking steps to promote immigration into the Southern States. We have already referred to several letters and speeches made upon this subject, and we published in yesterday's TIMES a careful and interesting letter from J. D. DE BOW, Esq., in regard to it. He addresses it to Gov. PERRY, of South Carolina. He reminds him that a lack in the requisite supply of labor has long been regarded in South Carolina as the principal reason of her want of progress in material development, and says it was a conviction of this which led some of her public men to desire, from time to time, the reopening of the slave trade. The same evil is likely now to be much more severely felt, and he advocates a resort to white immigration as the proper means to meet it. He says the abolition of slavery will be accepted as final in South Carolina, and the Legislature will make laws, as rapidly as possible, for the "social, physical and political advancement" of the freedmen. He thinks the experiment of emancipation will work much better than many believe,—still there must be a transition period, during which efforts must be made to increase their supply of labor.

As the result of his reflections upon the subject, he says the South "must throw her immense uncultivated domain into the market at a low price; reduce the quantity of land held by individual proprietors, and resort to intelligent and vigorous measures at the earliest moment, to induce an influx of population and capital from abroad;" and proceeds to show, at some length, that this is entirely practicable. He urges the appointment of emigrant agents and commissioners, in the Northern cities and abroad, and generally the adoption of the same modes of operation which have enabled the Northern and Western States to profit so largely by the access of emigrants from Europe.

This letter is but one of many significant indications that a complete revolution has been effected in the direction and tone of public thought in the Southern States. The war has put an end to their political sophisms and dreams of an interest distinct and separate from that of the country at large; and they are now turning their attention to the rebuilding of their industry and the promotion of their material prosperity. And what is most significant of all is, that they refer to New-England and the North now, not to denounce and abuse them, but as affording habits of thought and of conduct worthy of their imitation. A very short period of perseverance in this direction, will give us "a more perfect Union" than we have hitherto ever known.

THE PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION RETURNS.—The sudden subsidence of Democratic exultation over the late elections is very easily accounted for. Their principal organ here had prophesied and worked so persistently for disorganization in the Union ranks that the editors really believed in such a state of facts. Anticipating an easy victory in Pennsylvania, the scream of triumph was written, if not in type, on the night of election; but the late telegrams plainly indicated a Union victory, and the exultant "leader" gave way for a paragraph of the most ludicrous muddiness. Next day the result, by Democratic measurement, was "doubtful." Next day came a prolonged whistle of incredulity, and finally the blustering and bragging settled down into the modest admission—"Of course, we expected the Republicans would carry the State; but how cruelly their majority is cut down." It is just possible that we can stand a good deal of such cutting down. We have a majority considerably exceeding that of last November for President LINCOLN; we have very largely increased our strength in both branches of the Legislature, and we have made absolute gains in strength in 38 out of 42 counties so far officially reported. And this is upon a largely diminished vote, so that the per centage of gain is much greater than the numerical gain. Will the Democratic journals please print the returns side by side with those for 1862 and 1864?

TELEGRAPH CHARGES.—Is it not about time that something was done to popularize the telegraph? The prices charged for the use of it are perfectly outrageous. On the continent of Europe one can send a message across the whole breadth of France for a singe franc, (twenty cents,) while the shortest dispatch from Albany to New-York costs fifty cents. There is no excuse for this. It is the most profitable business in the country. All the lines are making enormous dividends, upon a capital three, five and ten times the cost of the lines. There is no reason why the public should pay such outrageous prices for the service. The cost of working a telegraph is very small, compared with a railroad or anything else, yet the charges in proportion are much higher. This matter is beginning to command a good deal of public attention, and will command more unless a remedy be speedily applied.

A REASONABLE REQUEST.—We see it announced that JOHN VAN BUREN is to speak at the Democratic ratification in this city. Will he not oblige us, if it is not too much trouble, by completing his account of the private conversation which he had with Hon. Mr. DEPEW just before the Syracuse Convention. He told us what Mr. DEPEW said about the election, and Gen. BARLOW and Gov. SEYMOUR. It was very interesting; but the public would be very glad to know also what Mr. VAN BUREN himself said. Will he now indulge us?

From Bennett's Herald.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS.—THURLOW WEED and FERNANDO WOOD have joined hands, and are going to run the municipal machine of this city. This must be gratifying news to taxpayers, taxed as they are at present to the amount of eighteen millions per annum. We shall not be surprised to see the amount increased to twenty-five millions next year under the rule of WOOD and WEED.

From Brooks' Express.

THE ODDS AND ENDS OF POLITICS.—The journals, daily and weekly, to-day, are exposing a coalition, that they allege to have been formed between THURLOW WEED, of the first part, for and in behalf of the Republican party, FERNANDO WOOD, of the second part, for and in behalf of the Mozart party, and Tammany Hall for the third party—whereby they all agree to go together and divide off the city, so as to elect only the faithful, no matter what their politics, to the State Legislature.

Assertions so direct and specific, on the eve of an election, may not pass uncontradicted. If the "taxpayers" of New-York wait for an increase to their burden until the persons named by the Herald and Express "join hands," they will have a long exemption.

I have lived to witness strange political combinations. With the knowledge of what has been of unnatural affiliations I can conceive of others even more repugnant. Personally, I have had "no stomach" for political amalgamations, never having inaugurated one, or voluntarily participated in any. In 1819, the party to which I belonged split, Gov. TOMPKINS representing one section and Gov. CLINTON the other. I then went with Gov. CLINTON; and in all that was essential, of duty and principle, have ever since "kept the faith." Being, most of the time during the first thirty years, in a minority, we had to rely, of course, upon recruits. And in accessions to our party we could not choose, but accepted whoever came. In this way "politics make strange bed-fellows."

But there are men as well as principles with whom, and with which I have never and shall never be associated. There has not been, and could never be, either time or circumstances that would induce me to vote for or support CALEB CUSHING for any position of honor or profit. And under no conceivable circumstances, no pressure, no emergency, would I vote for or support FERNANDO WOOD.

If, as has been alleged, there has been a "joining of hands" between "Tammany" and "Mozart," the evidence will in due time appear. Tammany kept a fair war record, and cannot, I think, afford to be found "cuddling under dirty blankets" with Copperheads. The sincerity of their State Convention is already more than doubted. With "BEN WOOD," the News editor, as its candidate for Senator, nothing will be left to conjecture. Such a "cat," (recurring to the World's metaphor,) rolled in ever so much meal, would disclose disloyal "teeth and claws."

Gen. L. C. BAKER, Chief Detective of the War Department, is about to publish a full history of the records of the secret service of the government, not only embracing the proceedings of his own bureau, but those appertaining to all offices belonging to the detective service of the government.

AMUSEMENTS.

The matinée on Saturday brought another operatic week to a successful termination. Mr. MARETZEK has now deployed all his artists, with the exception of the new basso, who is yet to be heard. The old operas have been received with remarkable favor, and the new singers, with a single exception, have fully come up to the public expectation. The manager now feels himself at liberty to announce a novelty. On Monday, then, we are to have FRICCI'S opera of "Crispino e la Comare," a thoroughly charming and delightful work, which we are sure will please. It was written many years ago, enjoyed a brief success in Italy, slept the sleep of death for a generation, was then resuscitated by the Paris opera, and is at this moment more popular than any other comic opera of the Italian repertoire. Its new career, indeed, has been marked by every kind of enthusiasm. Mr. MARETZEK has all the artists needed for the work, and the cast will be quite equal to any it has heretofore enjoyed. To-night at the Academy, VERDI'S "La Traviata" will be given with Mme. ZUCCHI, Signor MAZZOLENI, and Signor BELLINI in the principal rôles.

For to-morrow and Wednesday evenings Mr. MARETZEK has added to the ordinary rich attractions of the opera, the additional feature of a grand concert. He has done this for the purpose of affording Mlle. PAREPA and the other members of Mr. BATEMAN'S concert troup an opportunity of appearing before the most musical audience of the country. The lady is en route for the West—appearing in Chicago on Monday next. Her success in Boston was simply overwhelming. No singer since the days of JENNY LIND has created so great a furore. Messrs. ★NDEUTHER and CARL ROSA were also favorably received by the delighted audiences. The latest addition to Mr. BATEMAN'S company is the coinopean player, J. LEVY, who is the greatest proficient on his instrument now living, and who seems to have divided the applause with Mlle. PAREPA. All these performers will—thanks to Mr. MARETZEK'S courtesy—appear at the Academy to-morrow night.

The members of the Arion Society gave their first grand concert at Irving Hall, on Saturday evening. The attendance was extremely good—a just reward for a programme of varied excellence. M. BERGMANN presided in the orchestra, and under his steady baton a couple of overtures and several accompaniments were performed. BARGIEL'S overture to "Medea" was interesting to such of the audience who care to watch the present musical growth of Germany. It is a clear and intelligible production; smooth, melodious and pleasing, but tame and drowsy, and not at all suggestive of the subject. The concert was mainly vocal, the society distinguishing itself by many excellent performances. The best of these were the two Volkslieder of the second part, which were sung almost faultlessly, and the Fest-Cantate, with which the concert closed. The latter is by RAFF, a young composer, who has heretofore abandoned himself to the extravagances of the so-called school of the Future, but who, in this work at least, seems to have recanted, and to be now amongst the scholars of the past. The cantata is deficient in variety; the themes bearing a sort of family likeness to each other. The composer seems to be unable to emancipate himself from the thraldom of his first idea. He tries vigorously, with the aid of the orchestra to do so, and leads the mind to the expectation of a new subject of unusual vigor, but when the moment arrives it is Monsieur Tonson once again. The work is very well made, and as far as it goes, interesting. It is decidedly in the style of the old oratorios. The soloists of the evening were Mlle. Bosisio, M. Lotti, and Signor Appy. Of the lady we have no desire to speak harshly. It must, however, be quite evident to every one by this time that her knowledge of singing is far too limited either for the stage or the concert-room. Her voice is naturally good, and her appearance eminently prepossessing, but these qualities do not make up for a defective education or the insipidity that results from it. Mlle. BOSISIO needs study, and much study. The audience very gallantly applauded the lady on Saturday night, and encored the Bolero from the "Sicilian Vespers," which we have no hesitation in saying has never been sung so badly in this city. It was amazing to note how dexterously the accompanyist, Mr. SHREINER, would turn sharp corners, bolt across lots, and come up gasping, with a chord in his hand for the fair but faulty cantatrice, whose least merit is her observance of time. Mr. LOTTI sang the romanza from "Don Sebastian" with excellent taste and effect. His voice, always good in compass, has increased materially in power, and goes up to C in alt with ease and fullness. He was deservedly applauded, and had to repeat his piece. Signor APPY performed his violin solo with exquisite taste and the neatest of execution. We have omitted to mention that Mr. WEINLICH sang the solo part in the cantata, and Herr MULLER and Mr. QUINT assisted in the quartette from MEYERBEER'S "Prophete." The next concert will be given at Irving Hall on Saturday evening, Dec. 9.

The announcements at the various places of amusement to-night are as follows: Academy of Music, "La Traviata;" Wallack's Theatre, "Still Waters Run Deep;" Winter Garden, "Our American Cousin;" Olympic, "The Streets of New-York;" Niblo's Garden, "Our Clerks," the Ravels in "Bianco," and Young America and Signora PEPITA in "Perdita;" Broadway, "Sam;" Barnum's Museum, "Mazeppa; or, the Wild Horse of Tartary," (with Oceana Judah in the principal equestrian character;) New Bowery Theatre, "Orion, the Gold Beater," "Ireland and America," "Good for Nothing;" Old Bowery Theatre, "Rappelkoff, the Spirit King," "Mother Goose and the Golden Egg," and a farce. At the minstrel halls of BRYANT and WOOD there are changes in the programmes; also at the American Theatre, No. 444 Broadway, and at the Hippotheatron, Fourteenth-street, opposite the Academy of Music.

Matinées are becoming the fashion. Mr. CLARKE offers one to his patrons on Wednesday next, when his country friends will have an opportunity of seeing "Our American Cousin."

Blind TOM, the negro-boy pianist, is still at Dodworth's Hall, and will remain there during the week. He is a great natural curiosity, and performs some marvelous feats of memory, as well as many pieces on the piano.

Miss SALLIE REBER, described as the American cantatrice, and only 15 years old, will give a concert at Dodworth's on Wednesday evening next, assisted by various artists.

Among the interesting musical novelties of the Winter season will be a series of piano-forte recitals undertaken by Messrs. WM. MASON and S. B. MILLS, with the coöperation of Mr. THEODORE THOMAS. There is a vast library of excellent music arranged for four hands and two pianos, which is seldom heard in the concert-room, but which Messrs. MASON and MILLS now propose to interpret for their friends. It will certainly be a treat to hear these players together. Trios will also be performed, when Mr. THEODORE THOMAS' bow will be brought into requisition. The recitals will take place in the day time, and be given, if we are rightly informed, at Steinway's Saloon, Nos. 71 and 73 East Fourteenth-street. They are to be weekly, and the subscription will be placed at a popular figure, so as to place the educational advantages of the entertainments in the most economical light.

Miss RUSHTON'S engagement at the Olympic Theatre came to an abrupt end last week. "Lolah" failed, and deserved no other fate. "As You Like It" was tried, but the public indifference was complete, and the appearance of the house was ghastly. It became a matter of mere prudence for the management to return at once to the dramas of the past season. The "Poor of New-York" was revived, and the attendance directly was visibly augmented. Miss RUSHTON will, we are told, be added to the stock company of one of our city theatres, and we venture to say that in a proper sphere she will do credit to the position which she may be called upon to occupy. Nothing can be clearer than the fact that she has been injured by bad management. Too much was claimed for the wretched piece in which she made her debut, and too much was said about the lady's standing as an actress. The play has been dismissed with ignominy; the ability of the actress has yet to be ascertained. That nature has done much for Miss RUSHTON in a physical point of view is beyond doubt. The lady herself is not unwilling to demonstrate the fact. Art, too, in the matter of wardrobe, has not been appealed to in vain. Too much stress has, we think, been laid on these things. They have at all events failed of their intended effect, and it is only necessary to speak of Miss RUSHTON as an artiste. Her Rosalind was a respectable performance, erring on the side of over-elaboration, but intelligent and well sustained. We have had many better Rosalinds, but we doubt if there is any one on the New-York stage at this moment who could do more justice to the part than was rendered to it by Miss RUSHTON. For that sort of leading business which requires the dignity of womanhood, there is surely an opening for the lady. Her voice is good and distinct, and her reading moderate and lady-like. She has fortunately much to learn in the business of the stage, and not a great deal to unlearn. In the hands of a competent stage manager, her improvement would, we are confident, be rapid. That awful functionary would at once put a stop to the facial exaggerations with which the lady now accompanies every word that is spoken on the stage—reflecting the emotions of her soul, perhaps, but at the same time making ordinary people very uncomfortable. An intelligent repose, watchful of all that is said, yet completely undemonstrative, is the highest and most difficult attainment of the theatrical profession. It is the want of this quality that leads to grimacing and every other excess. Miss RUSHION will, we trust, have an opportunity of profiting by these hints. Her place in a good company will speedily be a conspicuous one; but there is nothing whatever, out of her wardrobe, to justify her in attempting to become a star. Her recent mishap has, we are inclined to think, assured her of this.

NEW BOOKS.

ELEMENTS OF THE GERMAN LANGUAGE BASED ON THE AFFINITY OF GERMAN AND ENGLISH. By ELIAS PEISSNER, Grad. Phil. Munich, Prof. of German Literature and Language in Union College. New-York: SHELDON & Co., Publishers, No. 498 Broadway.

This grammar has obtained a wide circulation in the schools and colleges of our country, and it fully deserves it. There is no one with which we are acquainted from which German can be learned with so much ease and thoroughness. This arises from a peculiar trait of the work, which is dwelt upon in the introductory note to the present edition. It is the plan of commencing first with what is identical, then proceeding with what is most alike, in the words and constructions of both languages, and so on until the student finds himself becoming familiar with German words and idioms the most remote from our own, and yet by a transition that has hardly been perceptible on account of its being so smooth and gradual. There is a thorough order in the carrying out of this plan, and yet with little or no show of it. Its great excellence is its simplicity, and the consciousness it produces of rapid and thorough acquisition on the part of the student and the teacher.

The lamented author was engaged in the correction of the work when he heard his country's call, that led him to die on the bloody fields of Chancellorville. Since his death it has been very carefully revised, and the plates corrected so as to make this seventh edition as accurate as possible. We decidedly think that no teacher who makes a thorough and faithful use of the book will think of exchanging it for another.

UNITED STATES ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL. Vol. 2.

The second volume of this important weekly journal is now ready, and comprises the issues for twelve months, ending with August last, bound in handsome style. The proprietors of the Army and Navy Journal, in commencing the publication of their paper two years ago, sought to supply what hitherto we had been without—an organ devoted to the military and naval history and organizations of the United States. That they have fully succeeded, the great mass of material in the volume before us amply proves. There will be found in it a full record of the progress of the war during the period covered by the volume, together with all the important official reports, lists of promotions, discussions upon the various appliances and methods of war, editorial comments upon the various naval and military questions of the day, and a great mass of information for the use of professional and non-professional readers. A compact index is a valuable addition to the work. The Journal deserves the confidence and support of all connected with both military and naval branches of the service, and of the public generally, as an able and faithful representative of our nation s defenders.

NOTES.

Rumor has it that another comic paper is to be started in this city, and that an immense capital has been secured to sustain it. Various names have been suggested: "The Cynic," "The Idiot," "Baalam's Ass," and "The Goose," are some of them. Perhaps the christening may be put up for public competition. If so, let the publisher beware of the fate of "Vanity Fair." That title was the result of a $50 premium, and was forced upon the unwilling proprietor by the clique of subterranean literary undertakers whose pens speedily dug the grave of that ambitious funny thing. The poor publisher got not only the name but the whole Admiration Society with it; they settled upon him like musquitoes in Jersey upon a white stranger, and never let up as long as he could bleed for even twenty-five cents per joke. Starting a comic paper is very serious business, and the projectors ought to meditate among the tombs of "John Donkey," "Yankee Doodle," "Vanity Fair," "Picayune," "Mrs. Grundy," and others of the loved and lost before making their desperate venture.

The Democracy are attempting to injure the prospects of Mr. PIERSON, the Republican candidate for State Senator in Kings County, by urging that he is the President of the Brooklyn City Railway. It is a poor rule that won't work both ways, and in this connection it will be interesting to note that the Democratic candidate for State Senator is the counsel of the same company, is one of its largest stockholders, and is more directly responsible for the policy of the road than Mr. PIERSON, or any other man connected with it.

Rev. Mr. BURTON, of Hartford, who filled the pulpit of Plymouth Church with such success last Summer, has received a very loud call from the First Congregational Church in San Francisco. Salary, $5,000 in gold, and traveling expenses out paid by the church. San Francisco is a live place, and Mr. BURTON is a live minister.

The Mayor he would a wooing go. It is very currently reported that the single eye of FERNANDO WOOD rests modestly but firmly on the plush-covered seat now occupied by Mr. GUNTHER. Can it be possible that our people will ever permit any other portion of the gentleman's body to rest there also?

The friends of GOTTSCHALK deny the truth of the alleged bad conduct reported in the California papers. They say the whole story grew from an absurd but entirely innocent flirtation.

Gen. MOLINEUX, of Brooklyn, has declined the Republican nomination for Collector of TAXES. It is rumored that he will not be long out of office.

The National Military and Naval Asylum.

Surgeon-Gen. BARNES has addressed a copy of the following circular to each of the corporators of the Asylum authorized by Congress last session:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30, 1865.

SIR: By the act of Congress, approved March 3, 1865, you were appointed a corporator of the "National Military and Naval Asylum for the Relief of the Totally Disabled Officers and Men of the Volunteer Forces of the United States," and your attendance is earnestly requested at a meeting of the corporators, to be held in the library of the Smithsonian Institute, in this city, on Wednesday, Oct. 18, 1865, at 12 o'clock M.

It having been decided by the Hon. Attorney-General that personal attendance of a majority of the corporators is necessary to constitute a quorum, and for the transaction of business, the undersigned, in behalf of the committee appointed for that purpose, begs to urge upon you the claims of thousands of our maimed and disabled soldiers and sailors, dependent upon your punctual attendance at this meeting, to give effect to the liberal provision of Congress, and provide for their protection and comfort.

Previous ineffectual attempts have been made to secure a quorum, and you are respectfully reminded that your absence on this occasion may defeat the intentions of the act.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. N. BARNES,
Surgeon-General and Brevet Major-General.

This call ought to command attention. It requires fifty members to constitute a quorum, and previous efforts to organize and take steps to get the institution started have failed for lack of the requisite number. The following are those of the corporators who live in this city:

Admiral Farragut,	W. E. Dodge,
George Bancrort,	James G. Bennett,
Gen. J. Hooker,	James T. Brady,
Rev. H. W. Beecher,	Rev. H. W. Bellows,
Hon. D. S. Dickinson,	J. S. C. Abbott,
Hon. Hamilton Fish,	Frederick Smith,
Hon. Horace Greeley,	C. H. Davis,
H. J. Raymond,	A. T. Stewart,
W. B. Astor,	M. F. Odell,
Gen. Dix,	W. M. Evarts.

We understand that a special car has been provided for those of the corporators who will attend, to start from Jersey City on Tuesday morning. The meeting is to be held at the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, on Wednesday next, at noon. It is to be hoped that as many as possible will, even at some personal inconvenience, make it a point to attend.

THE LATE CATASTROPHES.

TERRIBLE RAILROAD DISASTER.

A Train on the Lancaster Road Thrown from the Track—The Accident Caused by the Breaking of an Axle—Eight Persons Instantly Killed and Several Wounded—List of the Victims—Particulars of the Disaster.

HARRISBURGH, Penn., Saturday, Oct. 14.

An accident happened to the day express train going east, between here and Lancaster, this afternoon. Four cars were thrown from the track. Eight persons were killed, and two slightly injured. The only one of the dead recognized up to this time is the wife of J. P. BARR, Esq., of Pittsburgh. The accident was occasioned by a broken rail.

LANCASTER, Penn., Sunday, Oct. 15.

The following is a list of the killed by the accident yesterday on the Pennsylvania Railroad near this place:

Mrs. BARR, wife of JAMES P. BARR, of Pittsburgh.

SARAH WILLETT, of New-Cumberland, Penn.

Col. BUTLER and wife, of Lewiston, Penn.

W. H. BUTLER, clerk in the Surveyor-General's office of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. URETTA or GETTA, of Milwaukee.

One lady, unknown.

Two girls, 10 and 15 years old, unknown.

The bodies of those identified have been sent home to their friends.

Mrs. ANN D. BARR, killed, was the wife of Hon. JAMES P. BARR, of Pittsburgh, Surveyor-General of Pennsylvania.

Col. WM. BUTLER, killed, was Whisky Inspector at Philadelphia.

Three children who were with Miss GETTA, state that their father died in the South, and that they were on their way to visit an aunt in Philadelphia, whose name they didn't know.

Three females—a mother and two daughters—dead, supposed to be recently from California, have not yet been recognized. One of the girls appears to be about fifteen years old, the other about nine.

All the bodies except that of Mrs. ZETTA and three children which have not been identified, have been sent to their relatives. The others have been temporarily deposited in a receiving vault.

Capt. ISAAC MAFFET, of Philadelphia, it is supposed, was somewhat injured internally.

The train was on schedule time, and running at the usual rate of speed. The breaking of the axles, which appears to have been an unavoidable occurrence, was the cause of the accident.

Officers of the company appear to have been unremitting in their efforts to relieve the wounded, and in endeavoring to identify the dead. The Solicitor of the company has also been prominently active in helping to identify the unfortunate dead.

THE SACRAMENTO RIVER DISASTER.

Fifty-four Persons Killed and a Large Number Wounded—Another Serious Earthquake in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Friday, Oct. 13.

The steamer Yosemite burst her boiler at Riovesta, on her downward trip from Sacramento, last night. The upper works forward were completely wrecked. Thirteen persons are known to be killed, forty or fifty wounded, and others are missing.

Stephenson, Mr. Major and Mr. Washburn, actors or attaches of Maguire's Theatre; Decker, of the Central Pacific Railroad; Southerland, of the British North American Bank; G. W. Seaton, State Senator, from Amador County; Charles Lewis Smith and Wm. Rogers.

Another earthquake in Santa Clara Valley, last night, is described as being quite as severe as the one of Sunday. It was slightly felt here.

Further Particulars of the Loss of the Yosemite—Additional Names of Sufferers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Saturday, Oct. 14.

The loss of life by the explosion of the boiler of the steamer Yosemite proves greater than at first reported. Twenty-two whites and thirty-two Chinamen were killed, and thirty-two whites wounded. Some additional names of the killed are, JAMES H. BARNES, of New-Hampshire; HENRY M. DAKIN, of New-York; LOUIS LILLIE, he has a brother in Wisconsin; C. C. JACKS, of San Francisco; and G. L. SMITH, of Boston.

The coinage at the Mint for the last nine months foots up over $16,000,000. Breadstuffs unchanged. Part of a cargo of Barley has been purchased for New-York at 1c. ₱ lb. Wool firmer at 18c.@20c.

Gov. Wells on President Johnson.

Gov. WELLS, in his letter accepting the nomination of the National Democratic State Convention, says:

"My sole ambition in accepting office is to serve my native State. All the abilities and energies I possess will be directed to that end, and to restore Louisiana to her full and proper relations to the Federal Government, in the Union, under the constitution.

In ANDREW JOHNSON we have a national Executive who has nobly planted himself on the constitution in defence of the rights of States and the citizens thereof, to regulate their internal affairs by proper local legislation, as guaranteed by the constitution and in harmony thereto. To his wisdom, firmness and conservative principles I trust to restore the union and equality of the States on a lasting foundation, and cemented by the bonds of fraternal concord. We, however, have an imperative duty to perform, to strengthen his hands in upholding the constitution, by showing that we are worshy of his wise, liberal and conciliatory policy in our behalf. We must prove this by our acts as well as by our professions. I am happy to perceive in the resolutions adopted by the convention a full, free and frank recognition of this obligation on our part, in the declaration to the effect that the people of Louisiana accept the settlement of the question involved in the late struggle; that we have renewed our allegiance in good faith, and intend to render our honest support to the 'constitution and the Union of the States thereunder.' President JOHNSON asks no more from us.

In conclusion, Sir, allow me to say that I accept the nomination tendered me by the convention, and if elected will endeavor, to the best of my abilities, to deserve the confidence the people of Louisiana will have reposed in me."

A Declination.

S. Birdsall, Esq., Chairman:

NO. 14 GRAMERCY PARK, Oct. 14, 1865.

The highly complimentary manner in which the committee over which you preside have tendered me the nomination for Assembly in the Fourteenth District, has induced me to consider the matter in every point of view, with an anxious desire to accept; but I regret that I am compelled to decline. I find that it is impossible for me to attend at Albany the next Winter, and give that close attention to legislative duties which past experience satisfies me is essential in order to do credit to myself or my constituents.

Renewing to yourself and the committee my thanks for the expression of their confidence, I remain,

Yours, very truly, JOSEPH B. VARNUM, JR.

The Usual Saturday-night Murder.

INQUEST BY CORONER COLLIN—SALOON-KEEPER KILLED AT HIS BAR.

On Saturday night a party of Eighth-warders played and drank until a late hour in REHM & RAMMING'S lager-bier saloon, at No. 372 Hudson-street, and at midnight the bar-keeper, HENRY HAMMAN, wishing to close the place, requested them to depart. At this they became boisterous, and swore that they would finish their game if it took until daybreak, threatening violence to the landlord and bar-keeper, meantime, if they attempted any interference. HAMMAN, anticipating trouble, went to the street and notified Policeman EDWARD BARBELET, the officer on that post, that his services might be needed in the saloon, and the officer accordingly kept an eye on the place. The game went on until between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday morning, and then, a dispute having risen between RAMMING and the players, one of the gang sprang upon him while he was drawing beer behind the bar, and before any person could stay the ruffian's hand he had inflicted four stabs on RAMMING, one of them a deep and mortal wound in the right eye. The fellow immediately fled, and is still at large. He is, however, well known by the police. At the time of the assault Officer BARBELET was nearly a block distant; but he reached the saloon before the entire party had effected their escape, and having taken four of their number into custody, he sent for a physician. Dr. A. J. CHADSEY, of No. 288 Spring-street, responded to the summons; but when he arrived the wounded man was breathing his last. RAMMING lived about half an hour after the stabbing; but he was unable to articulate. His partner, however, who was in the saloon at the time of the attack, says that the assault was unprovoked, and that one AUGUST BUCKLEY struck the fatal blow with a large pocket knife. Officer BARBELET'S four prisoners, whose names are MATTHIAS CONNELLY, HUGH MCNELLIS, ROBERT BROWN and ROBERT ANDERSON, were committed to cells in the Greenwich-street Station-house, and held to await the orders of Coroner COLLIN. The Coroner impanneled a jury yesterday afternoon, but deemed it prudent to postpone the inquest until 2 o'clock this afternoon. A post-mortem investigation was made by Dr. THOMAS ROBINSON, and four wounds were discovered on the right side of the face; the wound in the right eye was ascertained to be three inches in depth, and at the extreme point which the blade touched the Doctor found pieces of bone from the skull. RAMMING dwelt at No. 9 Carmine-street. He was a native of Germany, aged about 40 years.

"THE NATION."—The success of such a paper as the Nation is one of the most gratifying signs of the times. It has now been before the public fourteen weeks, and in the last number we are assured that no such reception has ever been accorded in this country to any weekly paper, not pictorial, as the Nation has received. We do not believe this is an exaggerated statement. Certainly the paper deserves all the success which it seems to have met. Modeled after the best English weeklies, it maintains the high tone which distinguishes them, and in comprehensiveness of thought, earnestness of purpose and ability of discussion it is in no ways inferior to them. It is an organ of the most advanced thought, and its discussions, as temperate as they are luminous and forcible, are of the utmost value at this particular epoch of our history. We must not omit to speak of the literary department of the paper. The criticisms are characterized by great conscientiousness and rich scholarship. Unlike the criticism which has too long been in vogue in this country, that in which the Nation indulges is just and candid, severe when severity is demanded, and commendatory when commendation is fairly earned. It cannot fail to have an excellent influence on our literature, which has so long needed something of the kind. Altogether the Nation is a paper which we can heartily commend to those who love thoughtful discussions, and which, typographically, is worthy to be placed upon any table.—Albany Express.

With half an eye the difference may be seen between a coarse fabric and a fine one, and any one with the moiety of the sense of smell will find no difficulty in selecting Phalon's "Night-Blooming Cereus" from all the perfumes in the market as the most delicious and refreshing.—Wheeling Intelligencer.

What the Illustrious Abernethy Said.

"Well, Sir, what's the matter?" said Abernethy, the great English surgeon, to a cadaverous-looking patient, who had called to consult him. "Oh, nothing serious," was the reply. "My stomach and liver are out of order, that's all." "Do you call that nothing serious?" said Abernethy; "I tell you, Sir, that when these two organs are out of order, as you call it, there's not a square inch of the body that is not more or less diseased, nor a drop of blood in it that is in a healthful condition." Nothing can be more true, therefore it is of the very highest importance to keep the stomach and liver in a vigorous condition. If the one is weak and the other is irregular in its action, tone and control them with HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS—the most genial vegetable Restorative and Alterative that has ever been administered as a cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Disease. It is recommended by distinguished surgeons and physicians of the United States army, by officers of the Army and Navy, by our first authors, by eminent clergymen—in fact, by thousands of the most intelligent of every class, as an unequaled protective against epidemic and malarious diseases, and as a perfectly innocuous, but at the same time powerful, invigorant and alterative.

DR. VON EISENBERG'S
THE CELEBRATED APPARATUS.
From the New-York Express.

So many able and earnest men are devoting themselves to medical investigation, that it would be strange if new discoveries were not made. Among the most brilliant of these—we may indeed say the most brilliant of all—is that of Dr. VON EISENBERG, in regard to the Etherealization of Medicines: we may properly call it the "Spiritualization," since the Latin Spiritus, whence comes our word "Spiritual," signifies primarily, simply "the air."

Many of the most important and vital organs of the human frame cannot be reached by medicines in a solid or even in a liquid form. Thus the lungs are shut up in a bony chest to which access can be had only through the wind-pipe, the opening of which is closed by a valve, called the "epiglottis," so sensitive and so delicately constructed, that it will not allow the passage, except by main force, of the most minute crumb, or the smallest drop of liquid. Every person who has "swallowed the wrong way" the smallest substance, whether of liquid or solid, knows the feeling of strangulation thereby occasioned. A man cannot, if he would, voluntarily swallow any liquid or solid into the lungs, or the passage leading to them. Herein lies the true reason why Consumption has been so incurable.

As to the entire apparatus, we have no

PROPOSALS FOR FUNDING
CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS, COMPOUND INTEREST NOTES AND TREASURY NOTES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 29, 1865.

By virtue of the authority contained in the first section of an act of Congress entitled "An Act to provide ways and means to support the Government," approved March 3, 1865, which provides, among other things, that any Treasury Notes, or other obligations bearing interest issued under any act of Congress, may, at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, and with the consent of the holder, be converted into any description of bonds authorized by said act, notice is hereby given to the holders of Certificates of Indebtedness which mature before the 1st day of January next, of Compound Interest Notes, and of one and two year Treasury Notes, of the readiness of this department to give in exchange for them, to the extent of fifty millions of dollars, six per cent. Five-Twenty Year Bonds at three per cent. premium; that is to say, one hundred dollars of bonds for each one hundred and three dollars in certificates and notes; provided the conversion is made prior to the 1st day of November next.

The bonds issued in exchange for such certificates and notes will bear an interest of six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually in coin, upon the first days of May and November, and will be redeemable at the pleasure of the government after five years, and payable in twenty years from the first day of November, 1865.

The coupon and registered bonds issued under this proposal will be of the denominations of one hundred, five hundred and one thousand dollars. Registered bonds of five thousand and ten thousand dollars will be issued if desired.

Holders of certificates, compound interest or Treasury notes, who desire to make such conversions, will deliver them to the Treasurer, the Assistant Treasurers or the designated depositaries of the United States, or to any national depositary bank which may consent to transact the business without charge.

Interest will be allowed on certificates of indebtedness, and one and two-year Treasury notes matured or maturing prior to the first of November, 1865, up to the date of maturity, and when maturing after the first of November, interest will be allowed to that day.

Upon the compound interest notes the interest will be computed to November 1, 1865, upon the amount of principal and interest compounded on the back of said notes, from the period next prior to that date.

The principal and interest of such Treasury Notes and obligations will be considered together as an offer for conversion, but when, after deducting the principal of the Bonds, and three per cent. premium, there remains a fractional part of one hundred dollars, this fractional part will be paid to the depositor.

The Secretary reserves to himself the right of withdrawing this proposal at any time prior to said first day of November, provided fifty millions of dollars shall, prior to that date, be offered for conversion as aforesaid.

Circulars of instructions will be transmitted to the various officers authorized to receive certificates and notes, to which attention is invited.

H. McCULLOCH, Secretary of the Treasury.

THE GRAND MAGICAL SOIREES.

PROFESSOR WISEMAN,

The celebrated Illusionist and Necromancer, expounder of mesmerism, second-sight and supernatural vision, has the honor to inform the public that his mysterious entertainments are soon to commence in this city. New tricks in magic never before performed he will execute, to the great surprise and amusement of the audience. New transformations in the magical art he will exhibit, and new displays of chemical mysteries he will produce, all of which are calculated to establish his well-earned fame as a magician, and to afford unbounded satisfaction to his visitors. If unrivaled ability and skill are found at all in the profession of a conjurer, or if novelty and originality in the production of new and wonderful tricks can also be found, Prof. Wiseman hesitates not to claim for himself and his exhibitions a preeminence over all other magicians, wizards, conjurers or prestidigitators.

In the series of entertainments the strange and wonderful psychometrical phenomenon of reading the minds or telling the thoughts of the audience, together with modern spiritualism, will be frequently illustrated.

Hoop-rolling while suspended in mid-air, table-rappings, fortune-telling, watch-striking, bell-ringing and money-flying, &c., by an invisible agency.

THE CENTRAL PARK.

Autumnal Appearance of the Park—The Visitors on Saturday—The Carriages and their Occupants.

If our Park be fast losing the fullness of those charms of flower and foliage it boasted in the Summer months, it can scarcely be said to look less beautiful in its Autumn drapery. True, we miss the balmy breath of honeysuckle and of heliotrope from rocky slopes and sunlit borders, and the modest fragrance of the violets as we linger in the shady places, but the air is soft and cool, and we revel in the genial breeze, laden but one short month ago with the hot vapors of the South. We miss the rainbow beauty of the Bridge of Flowers, and of the vases on the terrace, but the vines, trailing along the parapets or upon the rocks, are beautiful in decay, seeming to have borrowed for their dying hours the rarest tints of those that have passed away.

Along the promenades the young trees give the most telling evidence of approaching Winter, but even they have their peculiar beauties. The maples' emerald changes into modulated shades of rich browns and richer crimsons. The sycamore and the beech yield more slowly to the inevitable change, but blush at their serregated tips in spots of scarlet beauty. The oak, still hardier, rustles its yellow leaves clinging tenaciously to its offspring. The sombre clumps of arbor vitæ and of firs alone seem yet untouched, telling of that unpretending worth which long endureth.

Stand upon the bridge above the terrace, and looking over the fountain and the lake, let your eye rest upon the brushwood among the rocks that bound the water on the other side, and upon the trees that top the rocks, and upon the distant and more distant foliage that lies beyond. Could you not say, with RUSKIN, "it is not color, it is conflagration, purple and crimson and scarlet?" These glorious hues, in the foreground sharp defined against the rocks, softly mellowing in the distance, awake a hundred happy memories of familiar forest scenes, and some of that enthusiasm which fires the brilliant pencils of our native artists when they garner for our city homes such rare treasures of our leafy beauty.

To our mind this people's paradise never looked more truly beautiful than now, nor have its charms ever been more fully appreciated if we may judge from the happy faces of old and young crowding its avenues and its rambles on Saturday.

Arriving about noon we first did the honor of a call to the menagerie. Crowds of little ones, as noisy in their exclamations of astonishment or delight as the noisiest of the macaws, were already calling for the utmost vigilance of nurse or mother, and sage old gentlemen with canes gave to admiring youngters little titbits of natural history with pointed illustrations, and old ladies with numerous nerves and sensitive, stood very far from the bears, and the camels restraining the ardor of the younger ones, by whom the apple was yet untasted. Oh! curious little Eves!

The collection of animals is rapidly increasing, and it is not too much to hope that, in a very few years indeed, we shall rival the gardens of Europe in this particular as in others.

The evident discontent of some of these imprisoned creatures is sufficiently manifest to suggest the desire to give them liberty at once. These prairie wolves, for instance, are evidently much opposed to civilized restraint, and as companions offensively uncongenial. Indeed there are evidences of a general despondency. There were several disturbances in the locality during our brief visit, giving rise to much ill tongue and personal abuse, and ultimately calling for the practical interference of the custodian of this department.

The gallery of art will well repay a visit, as suggestive of what may yet be done in this way to educate us to a true appreciation of the beautiful in form, and stamp indelibly upon our memories the times and shapes of great men gone before us.

The basement underneath the gallery is loaned, we presume, for the purposes of the menagerie. We hope it is only loaned, as its proximity to the hall of art is in indifferent taste, and its gloominess ill suited to the animals.

We had just made our round of this department, having lingered a few moments to sympathize with an opposum come to grief in a cage about two feet square, in the darkest corner of this cellar, huddled in a heap, his nose hidden in his furry coat. He started in his sleep. He was dreaming of a gum-tree, poor opposum, when the screaming whistle of the locomotive crossing the avenue, near the Arsenal, awoke the ill-feelings of all around us. A series of most dismal howls suggested our departure; it was one o'clock, besides, and we remembered that, like Artemus, we had to see a man.

We saw the man under somewhat unfavorable circumstances, and we advise our friends, if they wish to meet a butcher or a baker, they had better seek elsewhere. The other man can be seen to more advantage. Coming down from where we saw him, we stopped a moment at the fountain there, attracted like others by the vagaries of the little ball that plays upon it. "Two to one in fives," said a precocious young gentleman beside us, with a stiff shirt-collar, and a pin with a head upon it like a cranberry, his unfledged cheeks o'ershadowed by a stove-pipe, addressing another youth of like distinguished characteristics—"Two to one in fives, CHARLIE, that the ball there drops in forty seconds." "Taken," said the challenged, and out burst two plethoric watches, ready for the rise. Up, up, went the tiny copper toy, four feet above the basket, trembling from side to side, now dropping a few inches, then darting up again. Fifteen! Twenty! Thirty seconds! Down! "Lost," said number two, replacing his chronometer with a malignant smile, and knocking the ashes leisurely from the tip of his cigar, "Go it again, TOMMY, double or quits?" We looked earnestly at these precocities. Our prophetic soul knew that ere many moons had waned we should meet again in Broad-street, and later still, perhaps, among the tombs, where it is also our painful duty to go sometimes. Au revoir, jeunes hommes! Au revoir!

Down the terrace steps to the lake, smooth as a mirror save where the eddies die away behind the swans or in the wake of the pleasure-boats. A few minutes with the children and the birds in amiable relationship, then up again upon the drive.

What strange freaks doth fortune play. What queer folk in carriages. But let shoddy talk of shoddy; we eschew it. Few of those who go rattling by but have earned this wealth by honest industry. What if they boast no Norman robber for an ancestor, nor owe their real estate to the distribution of a Holland stadtholder. Have they less the right to spend it as they may? True, there is much offensive to good taste in the gaudy colors of many of these equipages and their trappings—much that is less pleasant to the eye than others which we see whose modesty of display is more in consonance with our ideas of republican simplicity. But let it pass; pass without your commendation; a short time and all this worthless show and glitter will move away before that refinement of civilization which it is our duty now to cultivate.

What a calamity it is to be the owner of a horse that has got a reputation. See those unhappy gentlemen behind their pacers, guaranteed two-forties, prepared to risk their own and their still more valuable horses' necks at the slightest provocation. Why do they bring their fastness here? It is not wanted. We come not to labor but to play. Haloo! Stand aside; take care. See that lunatic, how he goes it in his sulky! Crude petroleum is a splendid lubricator.

Hark! the music; let us join the tide which turns in that direction. DODWORTH does his best to-day; rare morceaux from BELLINI, from VERDI and from BALFE, closing with the Wedding March of MENDELSOHN.

What treacherous grounds are these same music grounds, for would-be bachelors. Fall back, old and young gentlemen of that ilk! You are not wanted here. Souls above wedlock, seek the shady places!

Gay as the Summer flowers whose memory haunts us, flutter around us these bright things in this world misnamed wo-men—in the other known as angels. How black eyes sparkle, and blue ones speak most eloquently, the happiness these glorious harmonies awake within. Oh, happy time! Oh, age and season fraught with beauty. Why not with us always!

'Tis half-past 4 o'clock, and we must leave. Still the avenues are thronged with comers—released from the warehouses of the city—thousands have yet to make their pleasant round. Endless the stream of vehicles to and fro. Pleasure sits with those who ride and jogs along cheerily with the walkers.

Who can fully estimate this great boon in the midst of our city, we may say, taking time but lightly by the forelock! Who can estimate to the full its value to our bodies and to our souls! Like the palace and gardens of the fabled Alladin, it has risen up amongst us; may it remain a pleasing monument for all time of the mutual love of a free and happy people.

LOCAL POLITICS.

United Service Society.

On Friday evening last the returned soldiers of the Ninth Assembly District (Sixteenth Ward) met in the large hall corner of Eighth-avenue and Twenty-fifth-street, to ratify the nomination of Col. GEO. D. KELLOGG for member of Assembly.

The meeting was quite large and enthusiastic. The nominee was received in a most flattering manner.

Major CHAS. J. SEYMOUR introduced a series of resolutions indorsing the President, ANDY JOHNSON, and the candidate, and enunciating generally the principles of the society, which were unanimously adopted.

Capt. TEMPLE CLARK, Maj. GEO. M. VAN HOESEN, Col. WM. S. MILLYER, Private JOHN G. GARVIE and Col. JOHN D. MACGREGOR addressed the meeting. During the proceedings, the Sixteenth Assembly District Club, (Nineteenth Ward,) 250 strong, with music and transparencies, headed by their President, Col. J. D. MACGREGOR, entered the hall, and were received with rounds of applause. The meeting soon after adjourned.

Brooklyn.

Mr. W. W. GOODRICH has received the nomination for Assembly in the Fifth District. The nomination was made by acclamation. Mr. GOODRICH'S name was presented with remarks highly complimentary to that gentleman.

THE CAMPAIGN IN NEW-JERSEY.

Grand Union Demonstration at Englewood—Immense Gathering of People.

A very large and enthusiastic meeting in behalf of the Union candidate for Governor, was held at the above place on Saturday afternoon. Between 4,000 and 5,000 people were assembled. The speakers for the occasion left New-York on the 1:15 o'clock train, and were met at Englewood by several Union delegations from the surrounding country, including the Fort Lee and Spring Valley Union Clubs. From the depot the whole party proceeded in a grand procession, composed of a long line of equestrians, carriages, wagons and vehicles of every description, followed by a large number on foot, to a platform capable of accommodating several hundred, which was erected about a quarter of a mile from the depot, in the open fields; here the procession halted, and the speakers, including Gens. KILPATRICK and SMITH, Cols. VAN BUREN and JARDINE, Maj. PANGBORN, A. W. TENNY, Esq., and others, were greeted with vociferous cheers. The meeting was then opened by the nomination of THOS. H. HERRING, Esq., as Chairman, who addressed the audience in a few appropriate remarks, after which the Union Glee Club of this city entertained the audience with one of their favorite airs.

Maj. PANGBORN was the first speaker introduced. He began by saying that Mr. A. J. ROGERS advised Gen. KILPATRICK that he might name his own time and place of meeting; but he (PANGBORN) was told by ROGERS that he would not come to Englewood, because it was not a county town, [Laughter] but he [the speaker] was sure it would be no disappointment, because Mr. ROGERS did not make his appearance, because Gen. KILPATRICK could repeat all that ROGERS would say. [Laughter.] The speaker then briefly alluded to Union candidates of Bergen County, and exhorted the people in strong terms to vote the Union ticket throughout, and also advocate the administration of ANDREW JOHNSON. He spoke very confidently about the success of the Union ticket at the coming election in November, when New-Jersey will be freed from the thraldom of the so-called Democracy. The Glee Club then sang "Poor Old Jeff," much to the amusement of all present. Gen. GREEN CLAY SMITH, of Kentucky, was the next speaker introduced. He did not come to speak himself, but to hear Gen. KILPATRICK, whom he had heard so much about, and whom he imagined to be a very big man, from the great accounts he had heard of him, but it was not his intention to detain the audience with a long address, but he would give them what they call in Kentucky a "lundom shot," and he did not know where, or who he hit, and what was more he did not care. [Cheers.] He made several speeches through the State, and from the language he had used he was called an Abolitionist, but if he was, it was the Copperheads of the North that caused him to be such. [Laughter.] The Secessionists tried to persuade the people of Kentucky to secede, but when they found that the old flag had been rejected by the Secessionists they said "No;" but you may take slavery, take our property, take our lives, but let us leave to our children the heritage that has been left us by our fathers, the freedom that they bought with their precious blood. [Cheers.]

Gen. KILPATRICK was then introduced and welcomed with thunders of applause. He proceeded in his usual style for about an hour. He spoke in denunciatory terms of the manner in which the Copperheads of New-Jersey acted during the past four years, and the manner in which they are acting now to secure the votes of the soldiers, whom they denounced as hirelings. He said the Copperhead party of New-Jersey should be buried nine feet under ground, face downward, and the people should pray to God that should never have a resurrection. He also advocated in strong terms the principles of the present Administration and how the Union party are determined to support it.

He was followed by A. W. TERRY, Esq., of this city, who spoke in a very touching and convincing manner, after which the meeting dispersed.

Union Meeting at Paterson.

A great gathering of Unionists took place at Paterson on Friday night last, at the Wigwam, capable of holding 4,000 people, and which was crowded with an intelligent audience.

Gen. HINCKS, of Massachusetts, was the first speaker, and reviewed, in vivid characters, the war and the action of the Democratic party as allied to the traitors of the South. His speech was warmly applauded.

Hon. JOHN DAVIDSON, of Elizabeth, N. J., then followed in a speech of great force and eloquence, holding the attention of the vast audience from beginning to end. When speaking of the constitutional amendment, in which he made touching and splendid comparisons, the audience rose to their feet, and gave cheer after cheer, the ladies manifesting their enthusiasm by waving their handkerchiefs. The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic that has been held this season.

Capt. Brackett and the City Railroads.

NUTS FOR THE LAWYERS.

Capt. CHARLES N. BRACKETT, of the City Hall Police, having resolved to enforce corporation ordinances so far as lay in his power, has compelled more than four thousand owners and drivers of carts, trucks, express wagons, &c., to take out the required license within a month past. He recently notified the Presidents of the city railroads that not only must they pay a license fee of fifty dollars annually for every car in use on their respective roads, but that their conductors as well must walk up to the Mayor's office and take out the necessary papers. But certain of the railway Presidents have informed the Captain that they procured the passage of an act, last Winter, exempting them from the requirements of the corporation ordinance in relation to conductors and drivers, and they triumphantly quoted the act, as follows:

"It shall be lawful for the owner or owners of any railroad in this State to employ any inhabitants of this State, of the age of twenty-one years, as a car-driver or conductor, or in any other capacity, notwithstanding any law, regulation or ordinance of any officer or municipality, or of the Common Council or government of any city or county to the contrary. This act shall take effect immediately. Passed March 29, 1865."—Laws of New-York, Eighty-eighth Session, Chapter 246.

An arrangement having been made by the Mayor with one of the railway Presidents, and Capt. BRACKETT feeling rather dubious concerning his authority, District-Attorney HALL was consulted on Saturday, and the corporation ordinance was declared by him to be yet operative. He will therefore sustain Capt. BRACKETT in enforcing the seventh section of chapter 39 of the corporation ordinances, which is as follows:

"No person shall keep or drive, for hire or wages, in the City of New-York, any accommodation-coach, or stage, or stage-coach, by whatever name or title the same may be known or designated, without being licensed as aforesaid, under the penalty of fifty dollars for every such offence, to be recovered from the owner or owners, or driver thereof, severally and respectively."

It is not improbable that a test case may soon be made up; but if Captain BRACKETT enters the courts he will probably summon all of the city railroads, except the Belt, the Sixth-avenue, the Eighth-avenue, and the Ninth-avenue, to account for running about five hundred cars without license. The cars on the roads here excepted, are licensed.

Fenianism at Slaughter-House Point.

HOMICIDAL ASSAULT.

On Friday night a party of Irishmen tarried late over their cups in PETER MATTHEWS' bar-room, at No. 9 James-slip, a place which is familiarly known as Slaughter-house Point, and at about 3 o'clock Saturday morning, the company having drunk themselves into fighting humor, the subject of Fenianism was introduced. The topic was discussed with considerable warmth, and at length FLORENCE MCCARTHY, of No. 45 Oak-street, demonstratively said that every Fenian ought to be drowned. Whereupon one DENNIS FOLEY sprang upon MCCARTHY with a knife and stabbed him twice, inflicting a severe gash on his left wrist and ripping open his abdomen. This occurrence somewhat sobered the revelers, and they called in Patrolman BYRNES, and he at once took FOLEY to the Oak-street Police-station. MCCARTHY was removed to his abode, and there his wounds were dressed by Dr. CONWAY; but later in the day, there being fears that the abdomen stab might result fatally, Coroner WILDEY was summoned to take the sufferer's deposition, which is as follows: "My name is Florence McCarthy; I am a native of Massachusetts, 29 years of age; at about three o'clock this morning I was at the corner of James-slip and Water-street, in a porter-house kept by Peter Matthews; with a number of others I was sitting on a bench; Dennis Foley, the prisoner, was standing in front of me; I saw him opening a knife in his pantaloons pocket; I rose then and tried to get away from him, but before I could he cut me in the left side and on my left wrist; I had neither done nor said anything to exasperate him, except, when joking about the Fenian Brotherhood, I remarked, in jest, that they all ought to be drowned; he then stabbed me." Previous to committing FOLEY to the Tombs, Coroner WILDEY took his statement, as follows: "I dwell at No. 341 Water-street, am a native of Ireland, 38 years of age, and am a laborer; I went into the bar-room with a friend to get a drink, when McCarthy hit me twice, and to defend myself I cut him."

The Philadelphia Firemen's Parade.

On Saturday, a number of our Fire Companies left for Philadelphia to take part in the grand parade in that city to-day. Preparations for departure were commenced at an early hour in the morning, and at about noon the several companies proceeded to the foot of Cortlandt-street to take the cars for the Quaker City. The following New York and Brooklyn Companies will take part in the procession:

The New York Association of Firemen, comprising 90 members.

Engine Company No. 44, numbering sixty men, under command of Mr. WM. O'NEILL. They will be the guests of the Moyamensing Hose Company.

Hose Company No. 30, numbering thirty-five members, left for the Quaker City at 3 P. M. They marched down Broadway on their way to Jersey City, and were preceded by Hahn's Band. Independent Company of Philadelphia will have them in charge.

Hose Company No. 41, numbering forty-five men; The foreman, THOMAS J. SHIELDS, was in command. Empire Hook and Ladder Company of Philadelphia will have charge of their entertainment.

Engine Company No. 6, numbering ninety men, and among the gentlemen who accompanied them were Supervisor Tweed and others. They will be the guests of Hibernia Engine Company, of Philadelphia.

Hose Company No. 23, numbering thirty men, under command of the foreman, ALEXANDER DAVIDSON. Empire Hook and Ladder Company, of Philadelphia, will take charge of them on their arrival there.

COMPANIES FROM NEW-JERSEY.—A large number of fire companies from all parts of New-Jersey left to participate in the grand parade.

Yachting.

To-day the yachts Palmer, of Philadelphia, and Henrietta, of New-York, will compete in a race. The boats will start from Sandy Hook, go round the light-ship, off the Capes of Delaware, and return. By order of Commodore STEVENS, of the New-York Yacht Club, the following has been promulgated:

NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB, NEW-YORK, Sept. 20, 1865.

SIR: I am instructed by the Commodore to call your attention to the following resolution, passed at a meeting of the yacht-owners held on board the Maria, at Holmes' Hole, Vineyard Sound, on the 13th day of August, 1865:

Resolved, That the yacht squadron be invited to rendezvous at Sandy Hook on the 16th day of October, to be present at the starting of the yachts Henrietta and Palmer on their match race around the light-ship off the Capes of Delaware, to come off on that day.

Respectfully, H. MORTON, Secretary.

Much interest is felt in the race, the Palmer being considered one of the best built and fastest yachts in the country. The America, built by GEORGE STEERS, that whipped the Bristol yachts so completely at the Cowes regatta, was supposed to be a fast boat, but it is rumored that the Palmer, when properly trimmed, can completely outsail her. Taken altogether, it will be one of the most interesting races of the season. A number of the boats belonging to the New-York Yacht Club will be present and follow the competing yachts over the course. Among them will be the Maria, Fleetwing, Rambler, Alarm, Haze, Phantom, Annie and Bonita.

New Boats for the Peekskill Route.

C. & R. POILLON are laying out the keel for a new boat for the Peekskill route. She is to be 230 feet in length, 33 feet beam, and 9 feet 3 inches depth of hold. The engine will have a 56-inch cylinder and 12 feet stroke. Another will soon follow, so that next year there will be two new and fast boats on that route.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

COFFIN MANUFACTORY DESTROYED.—Between 5 and 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, fire was discovered on the second-story of Mr. EDWARD H. SENIOR'S coffin manufactory, at No. 57 Downing-street, and before the bells struck the alarm, the flames had enveloped the entire second story. This delay in calling out the firemen is said to have been occasioned by an alarm just at that time for a fire in Mr. FALKENMEYER'S looking-glass-frame manufactory, at No. 171 Suffolk-street. The fire had enveloped the coffin manufactory before the firemen had unlimbered their hose, and they therefore turned their attention to saving surrounding property. In this they succeeded. Mr. SENIOR'S loss is estimated at $15,000. He has $3,300 insurance on stock and $2,000 on the building, in the Greenwich office. No. 59 Dowing-street, owned by Mr. SENIOR, and occupied by Mrs. MARY BARRON, was slightly damaged by fire and water. The building is insured for $2,000 by the Irving Company, and Mrs. BARRON has $4,000 insurance on her furniture, in the Peter Cooper office. Mr. R. SOMERVILLE, of No. 61 Downing-street, sustained trivial loss from damage by water. Mrs. DOUGLAS, Mrs. BRADY, Mr. MCCLOSKEY, Mr. MCAVOY, and Mr. WOLF, occupants of Nos. 76 and 78 Carmine-street, also lost something from damage by water and breakage of furniture in moving. The Sixth-avenue cars, which, it appears, have no bridges to cover the firemen's hose on their track, were stopped two hours.

ARREST OF JONES, THE DEFAULTING CLERK OF THE ERIE RAILROAD.—ALBERT A. JONES, formerly employed as clerk in the freight office of the Erie Railroad, in this city, was arrested in New-Orleans on the 6th instant. JONES, it will be remembered, had temporary charge of the collector's office, and availing himself of the opportunity to abstract several thousand dollars, he fled to New-Orleans with a female companion. In that city he went by the name of WOOD, and passed as a "Confederate" soldier. It appears he convinced a rebel Colonel that he had been a member of HARRY GILMORE'S battalion of cavalry, and that the Colonel recommended that he be employed as a bartender, JONES representing that he was reduced to poverty. He was on his way to accept his situation in the liquor-store when the New-Orleans detectives, who had received copies of his photograph, arrested him. The man finally admitted that he was JONES, though he endeavored to prove that he had been in the rebel army. The girl who was with him says he has no money, and that he had only $300 when he left this city. He declines to give any particulars in regard to his peculations.

ARREST OF A PICKPOCKET.—Last evening, about 7 o'clock, Detective E. L. MCWILLIAMS arrested one of a gang of three young men at the Jersey City depot, whom he had observed working among the passengers. On his person was found a pocket-book, and among other papers was a receipt for $112 50, for rent of a house in Douglass-street, Brooklyn, in favor of E. Q. HUNTING, and signed WM. H. STARBUCK; and another in favor of the same party, for $60, signed A. B. CLARKE. The prisoner, who gave the name of AUGUSTUS YOUNG, was committed for examination on Monday morning.
